Officer's Suspension Called 'Outrageous'

Hughes, who was suspended for 15 days for firing a shot at a fleeing burglar suspect.

Dewane told The Herald-Palladium he intends to file a grievance on Hughes' behalf with the police department today, and will file appeals with other agencies shortly.

"The FOP feels the action of Police Chief Andrew Rodez in this instance is outrageous," Dewane said of the suspension.

An attorney for a suspended Benton Harbor policeman yesterday termed the suspension "outrageous" and said he intends to fight it through every available channel.

St. Joseph Atty. John Dewane said he was retained by the state Fraternal Order of Police Lodge on behalf of Patrolman Lloyd

Hughes, who was suspended for 15 days for firing a shot at a fleeing burglar suspect.

Dewane told The Herald-Palladium he intends to file a grievance on Hughes' behalf with the police department today, and will file appeals with other agencies shortly.

"The FOP feels the action of Police Chief Andrew Rodez in this instance is outrageous," Dewane said of the suspension.

Beer may only fire his weapon at a known felon who used or is attempting to use deadly force in the commission of a crime when all other attempts to prevent escape have failed.

The rule was blasted Wednesday by the Berrien County Deputies' association, but has been defended by Rudez and City Manager Melvin Farmer, Jr., as offering the best protection for the city and police officers against charges of criminal liability.

"The departmental regulation is unreasonable and therefore invalid," Dewane charged. He said he will attempt to show during the appeal process, that there was no reasonable cause to suspend Hughes.

"He was acting as any reasonable police officer would under the circumstances," Dewane contended.

He said he intends to pursue the appeal in three channels "and all three avenues will be pursued simultaneously."

Dewane said a grievance challenging the suspension will be filed with the police department, which goes through channels in the department and finally to the city manager. Another complaint, Dewane said, will be filed with the city's civil service commission for a ruling by that board.

Another appeal will come under the state Veterans Preference Act, Dewane said, which will be filed with the mayor's office. The act is a state law which prohibits suspension of veterans except for certain reasons set out in the statutes, according to Dewane.

The reasons allowed for suspension in the act include official misconduct, neglect of duties, conviction of a felony, and extortion. Dewane noted, adding he felt Hughes had not violated any of those provisions. The hearing under the rules of the act would be held before the mayor.

Dewane said Hughes, a six-year veteran with Benton Harbor police, served with the Army during the Vietnam war.

Napoleon Lark Jr., a Benton Harbor businessman and factory supervisor, says he is starting a fund to help compensate a suspended patrolman. Lark also said he believes the Benton Harbor police department's general orders on use of firearms by officers "is both overly restrictive and detrimental to effective law enforcement." Lark said yesterday he had two contributions totaling $22 as compensation for Patrolman Lloyd Hughes and was seeking more donations. Lark is owner of the Ponderosa bar, 428 Territorial road and a supervisor at Superior Steel Castings Co.

Hughes was suspended for 15 working days without pay for firing a shot at a fleeing burglar suspect. The suspect was arrested when he turned up at Mercy hospital for treatment of a gunshot wound to the hand. In a letter to The Herald-Palladium, Lark said:

"As a citizen and business proprietor in the City of Benton Harbor, I believe the police department general orders regarding use of firearms by officers of the law is both overly restrictive and detrimental to effective law enforcement.

"Our city has been experiencing crime levels which have created an exodus of both persons and businesses to areas considered safer, less corruptive of youth, and more adequately policed by law agencies.

"Unless the Benton Harbor police department begins protecting citizens, the loss of inhabitants and businesses will continue until Benton Harbor becomes fit solely for criminals. To suspend Patrolman Hughes for 15 days may be proper in light of departmental regulations but is certainly a questionable decision as regards the curtailment of crime."

Honor Student, Trucker Die On I-94 Overpass

By BOB NORTHWAY
Staff Writer

A 17-year-old St. Joseph township girl and a Niles man died Thursday afternoon when a compact car and semi-truck collided head-on on Glenlord road at I-94 overpass, Lincoln township.

Berrien sheriff's officers said Ladene Ruth Korfmacher, of 2658 Lake Bluff terrace, and James Aubrey Fleenor, 29, of 1616 Cherry street, Niles, were dead at the scene of the 3:15 p.m. accident.

The two deaths raise Berrien county's 1977 traffic toll to 22. In 1976, 30 people had died on county roads up to this date.

It took two and a half hours to remove the bodies from the flattened compact car driven by Miss Korfmacher and the truck tractor driven by Fleenor.

Miss Korfmacher, a senior at Lakeshore high school, was an honor student for the past two years and was captain of the band's flag corps, according to Principal Ed Reilly. She was driving home from school when the accident occurred.

Deputy Tom Page reported Miss Korfmacher, traveling alone westbound on Glenlord road, apparently swerved into the path of the eastbound truck while attempting to avoid another car backing from a driveway.

A passenger in the truck, Larry C. Moore, 37, of South Bend, Ind., said Fleenor saw the Korfmacher car enter his path and attempted to veer onto the shoulder of the road but could not avoid the collision, according to Page.

The deputy said Miss Korfmacher's Volkswagen bounced off the front of the truck and came to rest against a concrete abutment at the west end of the I-94 overpass where it was struck a second time as the heavily loaded semi hit the bridge.

The jackknifed truck passed over the crushed auto and plowed through the overpass guardrail before its momentum halted with the cab of the truck hanging over the bridge.

Page said Moore suffered minor injuries when he was thrown through a window of the truck, landing on a grassy embankment 20 feet below the overpass. He was treated at Memorial hospital and released.

The truck had just left the Bendix Hydraulics division plant on Red Arrow highway with 48,000 pounds of auto parts bound for Jackson, Tenn.

The truck's trailer remained upright, but Glenlord road between Cleveland avenue and Roosevelt road was closed to traffic nearly four hours as wrecker crews cleared the scene.

Mrs. Knitter said she was pulling back into the driveway to avoid a collision with the truck when her car was struck by the Korfmacher auto, according to Page. The deputy said Mrs. Knitter reported she did not see the Volkswagen until the collision.

Lt. Dave Tiefenbach said last night, deputies will attempt to locate the driver of a brown pickup truck reported seen in the area at the time of the accident. He said deputies do not believe the truck was involved in the accident.

Lance Had No Horns, But It's Good He's Out

Bert Lance isn't exactly the man you'd pick to watch over the property of widows and orphans. But neither is he a demonstrated crook. In fact, his poor reputation is somewhat amazing considering that not only has he never been convicted of violating any law, but also never even formally accused.

Part of Bert's problem is the sanctimony of his old friend and now former boss, President Jimmy Carter. During his 1976 campaign for the presidency, Carter virtually assured the country that he would not only put good people in office, but perfect people. Bert Lance doesn't have the wings to fit that description even if he doesn't wear horns.

Undoubtedly, many segments of the print and broadcast press enjoyed making Jimmy squirm after his impossible campaign pledges of out-of-this-world purity in politics. And, still smarting from their debacle at Watergate, plenty of Republicans were happy to join any chorus that would embarrass a Democratic administration.

It matters little, as one U.S. senator said, that perhaps no more than a couple of his colleagues in the Upper Chamber could stand up to close scrutiny any better than Bert Lance did. Bert got the axe this week as one way of cutting down his too-prime boss.

That's the wrong reason for firing anybody. But there was another reason for firing Lance, and a good one. He just isn't competent to manage the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). If Lance's tangled web of overdrafts, two-loan collateral and cheap gold stocks prove anything, they prove he's not a sound financial manager. And that's exactly what the Budget Director of the United States should be, a sound financial manager. Not just a crony of President Jimmy Carter's.

The Budget Director may be the second most powerful person in U.S. government, directly behind the President. That's what many veteran

They're Going Back Down On The Farm

It may surprise some people to learn that the three fastest growing fields of enrollment in U.S. colleges are business, health and agriculture. Agriculture? At a time when the number of farmers continues to decline, learning something about the Washington observers believe. And right now, the load on the Budget Director is about as heavy as it's ever been.

President Carter has a long way to go before reaching his announced goal of a balanced federal budget before his present term ends in 1981. Whoever is his Budget Director will be quarterbacking the effort.

Bert Lance had one thing going for him in this regard: He was a conservative. Businessmen liked him because they felt he would exert influence on White House policy to hold down spending.

But neither in Calhoun nor Atlanta banks, nor in Washington, did Lance exhibit any detailed grasp of financial management. In fact, as Budget Director he admittedly did not consider himself a nuts-and-bolts man and left actual running of OMB to subordinates. He cruised around Capitol Hill politicking.

A big job lies immediately ahead for OMB. The Carter administration has to draft a budget for fiscal 1979. The fiscal 1978 budget is essentially the handiwork of former President Ford, inasmuch as work on it began during the final months of his administration. Thus, it will not be possible for President Carter to assert his spending priorities until the budgetary process for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 1978, is well under way.

Achieving a balanced budget will be no easy task. The last time the federal government balanced its books was in fiscal 1969, when revenues exceeded expenditures by $3.2 billion. Only four of the 25 federal budgets since 1954 have produced surpluses.

A budget deficit of $61.25 billion is in prospect for the current fiscal year. Business is worried. The stock market is sliding and the economy is faltering because of all this. President Carter needs a real expert to lead the way back to fiscal sanity.

James McIntyre, 36, a quiet man who has been deputy Budget Director under Lance, has been mentioned as the possible new chief of OMB. So has Robert S. Strauss, Carter's special ambassador for trade negotiations and former chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Either one should prove a better manager than Lance. And there are dozens more people around the country who would also.

land and its uses has a growing appeal.

Nor is it some kind of nostalgia fad youths are following. There are an increasing number of jobs behind the training in the many vocations generally lumped under agriculture on campuses.

In the last 15 years, enrollment in agriculture schools has tripled and the end is not in sight. Yet, such schools as Iowa State University report they have more job offers than they can fill.

College agriculture does not necessarily mean farming. It also includes fields such as forestry, horticulture, home economics and nutrition, not to mention peripheral fields like golf course design. But farming courses on many campuses also are increasingly popular.

At some point it seems likely agriculture schools will reach a saturation point, just as engineering schools did a few years ago and teachers' colleges have in recent years. But in the meantime a small army of young people is learning far more about the land than any previous generation did.

SAYS RIVERSIDE STREET BLOCKED

Editor:

The M.P.H. Company in Riverside, Mich., is constantly blocking First Avenue, between Main Street and Riverside Road — not only with trucks, but employees park along on it. In the winter, you can't even get down the road. In addition, when they're loading furnaces that they've manufactured, they block the road even more.

This company has enough money to add on a beautiful new addition, but cannot provide for a loading facility? They have a parking area — reduced somewhat now due to said new addition — but even the executives park their rented cars on First Avenue when it snows.

In addition, trucks (semi's) travel down Main Street — and that's a residential street. My son lives on Main Street, and my grandchildren, calling the sheriff doesn't do any good — they've been called repeatedly.

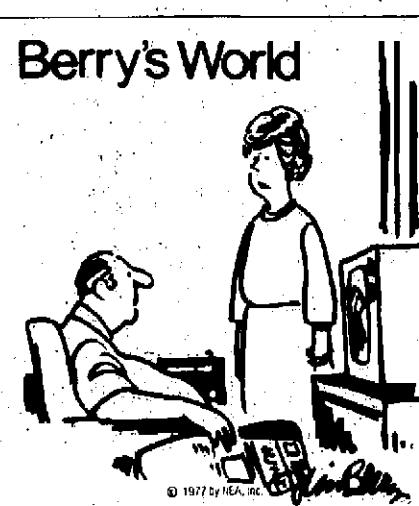

Can't something be done about this?

Analyzing The Vote

those participating in a national survey disapproved of the decision.

Time did not heat that particular wound very quickly because two years later, when Ford was fighting for political future in the 1976 presidential campaign, the disapproval had dropped only to 37 per cent.

The skepticism engendered by the pardon may have set the tone for much of the public's evaluation of his (Ford's) subsequent performance in office," says the report. "It appears that the public judged the pardon both on the basis of moral considerations and as a reflection on Ford's ability to make good decisions" as president.

Ford's tough primary battle with former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, "contrary to popular belief, was not so much an ideological contest as a reflection of the personal style and appeal of the two candidates, as well as a referendum on Ford's performance in office," the Michigan analysis reports.

The 128-page report document was unveiled early this month at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association.

The survey found that an unusually large proportion of the electorate, 15 per cent, remained "undecided" between Carter and Ford as late as a few days prior to the election.

Finally, the analysis seeks to destroy "the popular belief, often expressed by the media, that the country is moving in a conservative direction."

After carefully studying voter attitudes on issues such as school busing, legalization of marijuana, women's equality, government-financed health insurance and increased taxation of the wealthy, the study concludes that there was either a very slight shift toward liberalism or no change at all from 1973 to 1976.

Marianne Meets

Two Look-Alikes Have Same Goal

WASHINGTON — Before a recent NBC "Meet the Press," producer Betty Cole Duhett sent the network's promotion department five photographs of the governors to be interviewed on the show.

The department head promptly called to complain that she had failed to send a picture of one of the governors.

"I sent you all five," she insisted. "But one picture was a duplicate, so we threw it away."

The promotion man replied: "Once again, the uncanny resemblance between Republican Gov. Pierre (Pete) du Pont IV of Delaware and Democratic Gov. John D. (Jay) Rockefeller IV of West Virginia had claimed another uncanny victim."

Du Pont and Rockefeller, millionaire scions of two legendary family dynasties, had not met before each was elected governor in a small state last fall. By now, however, they have developed a joking camaraderie to ease the awkwardness of colleagues and acquaintances who keep mixing them up.

Sharon Percy Rockefeller was talking to Du Pont during dinner at the National Governors' Conference when a photographer rushed up and asked if she would pose briefly with her husband. Laughing, they didn't bother to enlighten him.

The two men showed up for their "Meet the Press" appearance with three other governors wearing identical horn-rimmed glasses, similar subdued ties and identical navy blue pin-striped suits. "I thought I told you to wear a pink suit," Rockefeller quipped.

Both have the potential of national leadership in their respective parties. They are attractive symbols of the new breed of politicians who are moving now to wrest party control all across the country from the aging conservatives and liberals who have dominated the

Revenue Bonds Get Benton OK

The Benton township planning commission last night became the first governmental unit to recommend approval of requests by Sandvik, Inc., and Jack Jacobs Co., Chicago, which proposes to build a K-mart, for bonding assistance totaling $8.1 million.

The assistance in the form of tax exempt revenue bonds would include $4.3 million to construct a new K-mart and smaller stores on a 20-acre portion of the Pipestone Development area, and $1.8 million for Sandvik, Inc., for installation of new equipment at its present plant at 2235 Dewey avenue, in the Pipestone Industrial District.

Steps toward the issuance of the bonds began with the Berrien county Economic Development Corporation which earlier issued resolutions of intent for both requests.

The bonds provide incentive for industrial growth because county-issued bonds are sold at a lower interest rate and are tax exempt. Final approval is required by the local unit of government involved and Berrien county government. Neither is liable in the event bond loan payments are defaulted.

The township planning commission last night voted to recommend approval of a "project area" designation — the first step in the procedure that will involve the township planning commission, the township board of trustees, the Berrien county planning commission and the county board of commissioners.

Charles Schrenk, Berrien county economic development director, said the two requests must be approved in two separate phases by the four governmental bodies.

The Benton township board of trustees has scheduled Oct. 4 for public hearings on the bond requests.

The first phase, the project area designation, is a legal formality detailing the area in which the project will take place and the surrounding areas that could be affected by the project. The second phase is a "project plan" which is a description of how the project will progress, detailing time schedules, improvements to be made and the organization of the firm's management.

The Jacobs Co. plans to build the structure which K-mart would lease.

Sandvik, a strip steel processing plant, plans to use the $1.8 million for plant expansion, according to Schrenk. The new equipment will eventually add 30 to 35 jobs, he said. The plant now employs about 20 people.

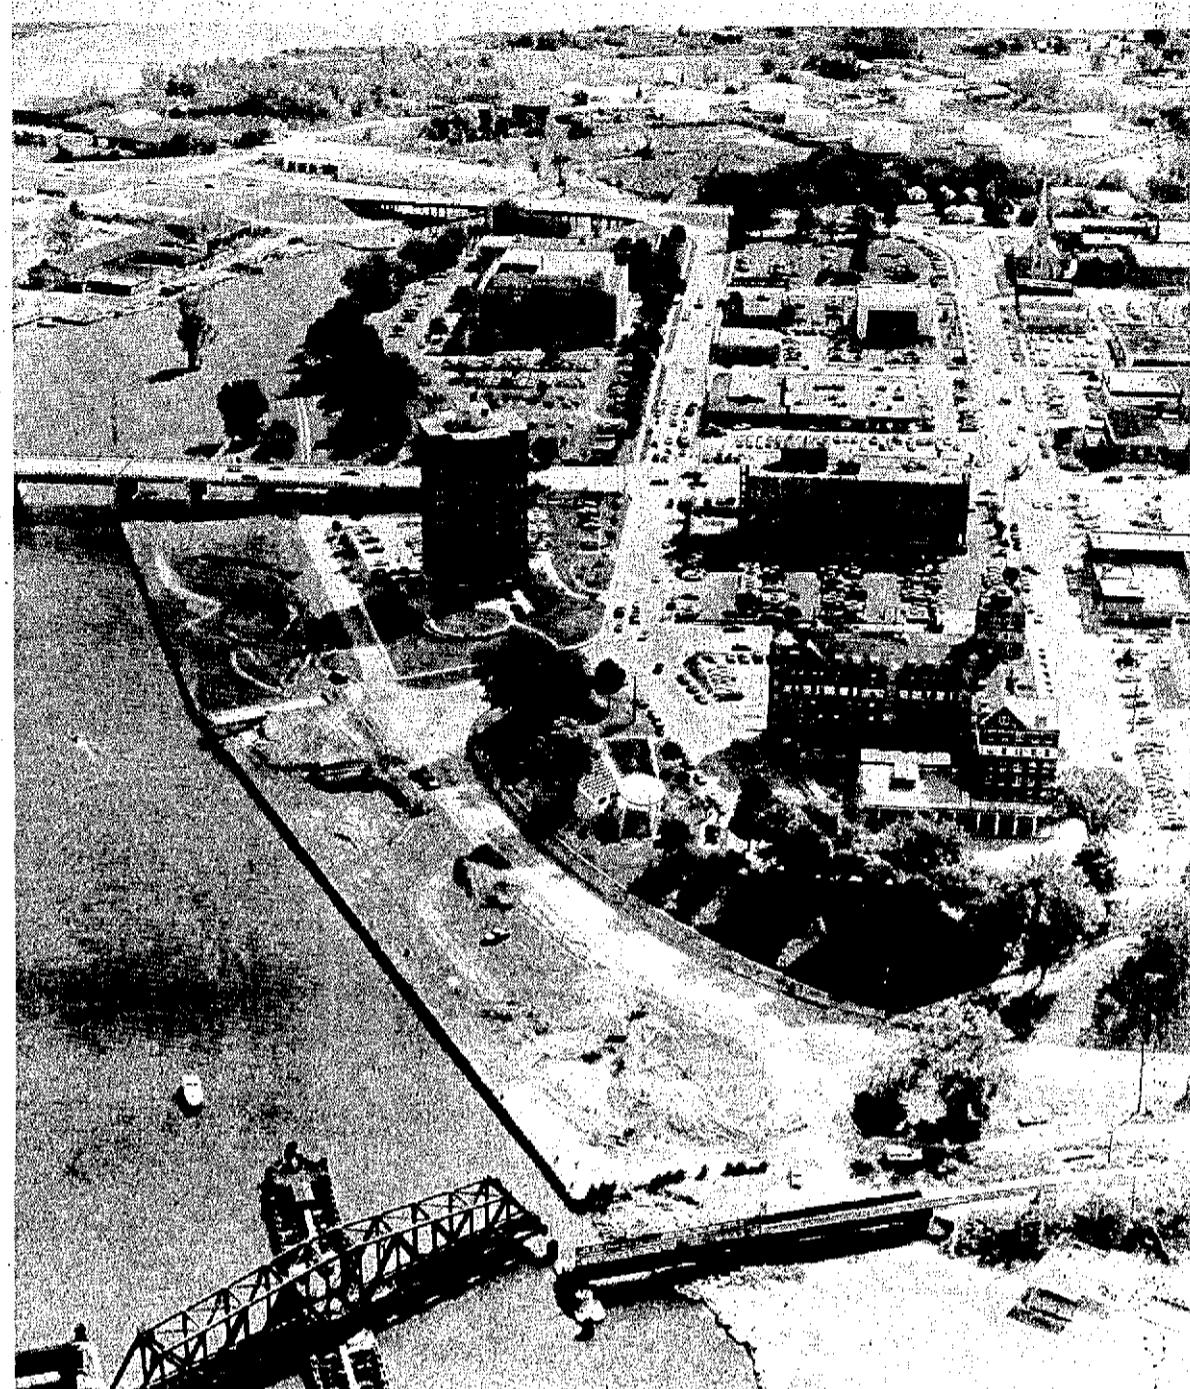

Sandvik has received a letter of intent from a bank to buy the bonds if they are approved, according to Schrenk, and bonds for the project would be offered through an underwriter.

In other action, the township planning commission gave an informal "no" to a real estate agent who had asked the planning commission to amend the zoning ordinance so a $100,000 bicycle shop can be built on Napier avenue.

Real estate agent Tom DeRosa, who said he was representing St. Joseph Cycle shop of St. Joseph township, asked that the ordinance be amended to permit the shop on the north side of Napier avenue between Norwood avenue and Pipestone road. The ordinance currently allows office buildings in that area but not commercial establishments that generate heavy traffic.

In a 4 to 2 straw vote, planning commissioners said they would not recommend the present D-2 commercial zoning classification include bicycle shops. The D-2 classification presently allows professional offices.

Voting against the amendment were Chairman James Benson, Charles Duncan, Earl Patterson, Daniel Cook, Nora Jefferson and Robert Baker. Voting for the amendment were George Culverhouse and Frank Graziano.

Sprinkler system and electrical wiring for pathway lights should be completed by middle of next week. Grass seeding is expected to be completed by end of next week. Trees and bushes will not be planted until next spring. Construction is being financed by $100,000 grant from Frederick S. Upton foundation in name of his late wife Margaret Beckley Upton. ## House Delays Marijuana Use Bill

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A showdown debate and vote on marijuana penalties is being delayed until next week in the Michigan House of Representatives.

The measure, which would relax penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana, was postponed Thursday as supporters searched for more votes to ensure passage. While supporters were searching for votes, the state Bar of Michigan yesterday endorsed the legislation.

Meanwhile, Rep. Ray Mittan (R-Niles), questioned a letter from the executive director of the Michigan Council on Alcohol Problems, which urged passage of the marijuana bill.

Mittan said the letter "seems a little bit odd to me coming from a minister from whatever church he might be from. I thought the Council on Alcohol Problems was dead set against the use of narcotics in any way," Mittan said.

The Rev. Allen Rice, executive director of the council, today told The Herald-Palladium that his letter urging passage was written at the direction of his board of directors, which in May passed a resolution urging removal of jail penalties for marijuana users.

"We're mainly upset with the jail penalty," he said, but indicated the council had no argument with fines being imposed against marijuana users. "I've found that since being up here (in Lansing) and since Rice has been here, about four years now, the only thing I get out of him is one prevarication after another," Mittan said. "I'm quite sure that Rice's letter will have very little influence on anyone in the legislature."

Mittan said the letter "urged everyone to vote for the relaxation of penalties on marijuana and said it has been proven that marijuana does not push one on to addiction of hard drugs."

"Rep. Malcolm Bailey, our speaker pro-tem, gave a speech in the House that he lost a son to an overdose of heroin, who did get started on marijuana, and I think he's closer to being right than Rev. Rice is," Mittan said.

The proposed marijuana bill has been defeated once already. It would revise penalties for possession of marijuana to permit possession of up to a gram, or a little over an ounce.

"We feel that far too much law enforcement time and money is being spent in attempting to change a social practice similar to the use of alcohol," State Bar President Joseph L. Hardig said of his org-ganization's support of the bill. "Prohibition of alcohol did not work, and we do not believe that the use of strong criminal sanctions against marijuana users is a productive use of law enforcement systems," Hardig added.

The state bar is the policy-making body representing 16,000 member lawyers in Michigan.

Chiropractors Blocked

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A temporary restraining order blocking three chiropractors from performing services limited to doctors was granted Thursday by the Ingham County Circuit Court. The order was sought by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley. He charged that the three chiropractors went beyond locating and adjusting by hand misaligned or displaced vertebrae. Kelley said the chiropractors also performed such tasks as dispensing and administering drugs and taking blood samples. The three were identified as John L. Boeve of Detroit, James J. Reno of Petoskey and Urge E. Trobridge of Battle Creek. Kelley also was granted restraining orders against three clinical laboratories which performed services for two of the chiropractors.

Wildlife Film Thursday

WELL-ADAPTED: Were this arctic fox to live in the more moderate climate of Iceland, its pelage would remain its summer brown with little change. Well-adapted to their environment, these foxes have survived experimental temperatures of 178 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. They are relatively scarce because of limited food supplies; their population fluctuates seemingly in accordance with fluctuations in lemming population. This handsome fox is one subject of the Audubon Wildlife Film, "West Side Story — Mexico to Alaska," produced and to be presented by Walter H. Berlet, Thursday, Sept. 28, at 7:30 p.m., at St. Joseph high school auditorium. The Audubon Wildlife Film Series is sponsored by Sarett Nature Center, Benton Harbor, and the National Audubon Society. Season tickets are available by contacting the nature center. Individual tickets will be available at the door.

Proper Storage: Work Easier

Study the way you work in your kitchen and you will see that most of your running around results from not storing things where you use them most.

This is the point of view held by well-known kitchen designer, Janean, who discusses 50 ways to improve your kitchen in the Oct. 18 issue of "Woman's Day."

One of the most innovative kitchen designers in the country, Janean believes that an organized pattern of storage will cut down on the time you spend in preparation and cleanup.

The first step in improving the way your kitchen functions is to study the way you work in it. Do you walk back and forth to get staples and implements to use at the place where you prepare food? Do you have to open five cabinets to get what you need to produce a cup of coffee? Are your counters a clutter of shakers, canisters, appliances and decorative objects?

Janean offers "Woman's Day" readers 50 ideas to help them reorganize the kitchen they have so that they can enjoy it more while they work in it, and can get out of it fast. A number of these ideas won't cost you a penny to use. Here's a sample of a few of them:

— Install an overhead rack to keep pans and large implements close to your range, or preparation areas.

— Put narrow shelves in between existing wide ones to use for little cans, jars, packages, cups. It is easier to find them.

— Organize your broom closet: hooks for hangables; shelves and baskets for cleaning aids (rags, vacuum attachments); a compartment to prop brooms and mops.

— Attach a peg-board to a wall to hang equipment. It stretches storage space.

— Keep mixing bowls, appliances and other heavy things in a cabinet under the counter since it is easier to lift heavy objects up onto a counter than down to it.

— In undersink storage, keep all small items off the cabinet floor. They eat up space you can use for something large, like a waste container.

— If you don't have a place for a sit-down desk, use a bulletin board to hang your desk equipment; a shelf to hold pads, pencils, phone, cookbooks.

— If you can't add drawers to the kitchen, change some of the fixed shelves to slide-out ones. They will give you the pull-out ease of drawers.

— If you have an entry to the basement stairs, or at the kitchen door, you can convert it to a pantry by lining it with shelves.

Season Opens Tuesday

Community Concerts

The new De Cormier Singers under the direction of Robert De Cormier, will present a concert Tuesday, Sept. 27, at Lakeshore high school auditorium to open the 1977-78 season of Community Concerts Association of Southwest Michigan.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m.

The De Cormier Singers is a group of young artists performing a staged program which contains the excitement of a theatrical entertainment with musical artistry.

De Cormier, founder and director of the group, is well known as a composer and choral director in both the classical and popular fields. He has been director of choral activities at Eastman School of Music and is musical director of the New York Choral Society which has been called "the finest amateur choir in New York."

In September of 1976, De Cormier was musical director for the premiere of a Morton Gould-Carolyn Leigh special Bicentennial musical commission at Kennedy Center. De Cormier has done extensive television work as choral director for the Ed Sullivan show.

musical director of the NET production of "Stage for Protest," based on the plays of Shaw, Baldwin and Brecht, and as musical director of "American Musical Heritage" series on CBS which received the Peabody award.

His choral arrangements for Broadway include "Milk and Honey" and "110 in the Shade" and he has also composed the music for "The World of Sholem Aleichem."

He was responsible for the arrangements contained in the Columbia Masterworks' best selling albums by the Mormon Tabernacle choir in performances with the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia Orchestra.

De Cormier founded the De Cormier Singers in 1962 and the group has made coast-to-coast tours of the United States and Canada each year since its debut.

The Washington Post has called their performance, "A flawless evening of great achievement."

50 Years

NEW TROY — Mr. and Mrs. B.E. Johnson of New Troy were honored at a family luncheon Sept. 17 at Pebblewood Country and Golf Club; Bridgeman, celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

Hosting the event were the couple's daughter, Mrs. David (Evelyn) Hermansen of Muncie, Ind., and Mrs. Richard (Jean) Anderson of Evergreen Park, Ill., and Mrs. William (Virginia) Hoying of Brookfield, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were married Sept. 21, 1927, in Chicago. They moved to New Troy in 1968.

Prior to retiring, Johnson was employed for 39½ years by AT&T, Chicago 3 Operations.

The couple has two grandchildren.

Deadline for the survey currently being conducted by the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph branch of the American Association of University Women is Friday, Sept. 30, according to Mrs. Gladys Burks who is chairman for this aspect of the AAUW 1977-78 program.

The survey forms for redefining the goals of education have been distributed to AAUW members and to community educators. It is intended to evaluate current long-range plans for education and for community needs.

Participants are asked in base their answers on school systems with which they are familiar with results expected to benefit all school systems in the area. Mrs. Burks said.

The program is under auspices of the national AAUW for the 1977-78 biennium and is intended to help AAUW members make citizen participation a reality.

Mrs. Burks pointed out that the topic might include attention to curricula affecting new careers for women. This, in turn, she said, might involve calling attention to AAUW Fellows who are pursuing some of the non-traditional careers.

She said it could also draw the legislative program committee into discussing and acting upon school funding proposals in which certain sums are committed to special programs in school curricula.

It could also involve a community assessment project in measuring the quality of American education and answering such questions as "What kind of world should our children be prepared to live in?" Mrs. Burks said.

Survey forms are to be returned to Mrs. Burks who is coordinator of compensatory programs for the Benton Harbor area schools.

Bake Walnuts For Flavor

Toasting walnuts will add to their flavor and is easy to do. Drop shelled walnut kernels into rapidly boiling water. Boil for three minutes then drain well. Spread kernels evenly in a shallow pan and bake at 350 degrees F., stirring often, for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown.

For salad or soup croutons, brush the toasted walnut kernels with butter and sprinkle with salt, onion or garlic salt, or your favorite salt.

See Home Communication System

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tomorrow's home telephone system, probably built around minicomputer, should make those staid instruments of today as obsolete as a jungle drum, the head of a communications equipment group says.

"We have the technology and much of the basic hardware right now to set up true home communications centers" says Richard Long, president of the North American Telephone Association. "There is a revolution just over the horizon that will vastly simplify consumers' lives to no less an extent than the advent of natural gas and electricity revolutionized kitchens dominated by wood burning stoves."

Long's association includes manufacturers, installers and servicing companies who deal in telephone equipment ranging from desk handsets to computerized switchboards.

"What's coming for both business and the home is a revolution in telephony that is expected to overshadow anything that has happened since the advent of jungle drums," says Long, who foresees innovations that include:

A small, inexpensive computer that will help strip away paperwork troubles and shopping trips for the home and apartment dweller just as larger models simplified and speeded up today's business.

"With a minicomputer that may cost less than a black-and-white TV set, the consumer can use code symbols to do a number of jobs. One set of coded instructions can automatically withdraw $50 from your bank account and transfer it to the ABC Co. to pay off a bill, with a computerized receipt."

"Grocery and drug store shopping in the future may well be handled from the living room using catalogues. Pick your items, punch the store and item codes and wait for delivery of the orders that probably will be made up and bagged or boxed automatically."

Other uses for the home telephone system of the future could include police, fire and medical protection.

"We foresee the home being wired with special sensors that will beep, squeak or wail out their warnings in case of fire, leaking gas or the like. Anti-burglary devices could report directly and instantly to the nearest police station."

Hospital bills for some patients soar today because of the need to keep them in the hospital so as to keep a close watch on their vital signs. This monitoring could be done at home with equipment that transmits information to the hospital and/or physician automatically and around the clock, Long notes.

Electronic mail, delivered at different rates depending on the time of day or night it is sent, is almost certainly just over the horizon, he predicted. The mail can be either hand-or machine-written and sent over machines that give the receiver a letter-like copy through facsimile process. Tomorrow's newspapers may be delivered the same way.

And, of course, that same basic minicomputer can order up special TV and movie programs for the home set and enroll you in special courses that are taught via television.

Long adds: "I think it is important to note that much of what is foreseen for home telephone operations will entail significant energy savings. The energy costs of sending and receiving conventional mail are quite high compared to the electronic version. Centralized and high speed delivery systems for everything from groceries to a new sofa will lessen the need for trips in the family auto."

Give Kitchen A Boost

Give a boost to kitchen and cooking with a cookware collection featuring brightly-colored leaves and blossoms on a beige background. The seven-piece set is made of heavy gauge steel for fast, even heating. The glass-like ceramic finish is long lasting and washes clean in hot water.

Included are a 10-inch skillet, six-quart Dutch oven, three-quart sauce pan, one and one-half-quart sauce pan and three lids. There are also matching tea kettles and percolators available.

Hometown Glamour

Glamour jobs aren't synonymous with big cities. In fact, according to the current issue of Family Circle magazine, you can find a glamour job in your own hometown.

As the article notes, these are the jobs that are fun, exciting and challenging; or as an editor of the leading theatrical weekly defines them, a glamour job is one where, "you're glad to get up and go to work in the morning."

Finding this kind of exciting work takes preparation. To help make it easier, Laura Schwartz and Marcia D. Katz, authors of the recently published "How to Get a Glamour Job," have included 10 hints in their article for Family Circle. The first is to define what glamour means to you. For most people, it means working in a particular field — retailing, broadcasting, travel.

After choosing an area, says the magazine, take a good look at the skills you already possess and see how you can translate them into your chosen field. For example, the authors point out that while top secretarial skills may not bring glamour into your life when working at an insurance firm, if music is what excites you, being a secretary at a record company or in a music shop could be exciting and glamorous.

Assessing your skills, continues the article, is also a matter of taking stock of what you have accomplished outside of your salaried work experience. Volunteer work may be a good background for public relations and the ability to find a new house in a different part of the country every two years is almost the start of a real estate career. Of course, the important fact is that you really enjoy doing these things.

Glamour jobs are fun say the authors. They are also hard work; so the second step should be to decide how hard you want to work and how far you want to go in your profession. For some people, pleasant surroundings and no pressure are glamorous; while others, no matter what their profession, find glamour at the top where pressure is usually a large part of the job.

As Family Circle points out, either way, you have to start at the beginning with an entry level job. Among the suggestions the article gives for getting started are: writing a good resume, taking any special education courses you can find and reading the trade journals in the field you have chosen — libraries are a good source for these. They all help.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Spain's Feminists Up In Arms

Dear Ann Landers: A few days ago I read somewhere that the reason Spanish law punishes an adulteress but lets the unfaithful husband off scot-free is simply because a man cannot get pregnant.

According to the article, infidelity cannot be equal before the law for a man who returns home from "a dalliance" because he cannot get pregnant. The woman, however, must carry the blame and pay the price because God has given her the role of childbearing and it is her responsibility to protect her body against "wrongful use."

The article says the feminists in Spain are campaigning for abolition of a law which can put an unfaithful wife in jail for as long as six years. The only way a cheating husband can get punished is if he keeps a mistress openly, thus bringing shame on his wife and family — or if he insists on putting her up in his own home along with his wife and children.

What do you think about this sort of discrimination, Ann Landers? — Appalled A-Plenty

Dear Plenty: I think the feminists are going to win because the reign in Spain is going to be a pain for husbands whose morals are on the wane.

Then Don't Ask

Dear Ann Landers: My eldest sister's daughter was married recently. We were not invited to the wedding but we did receive an announcement.

I asked my sister what her daughter might need as a gift. Yesterday I was informed that they had purchased an expensive bedspread and to please send a check covering the cost.

I feel my sister has put me on the spot. What do you think? — M.L.

Dear M.L.: Yes, your sister has put you in the spot but you gave her a neat assist. The moral of the story is "Don't ask questions if you don't want answers."

Sorry Lambchop

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl 12 years old. For some reason I have been getting the hiccups a lot lately. I hic quite loud and my mother says it drives her crazy. When I told Mom I don't give myself hiccups, they just come, she said, "Yes, you do — and I want you to stop it."

Honestly, I don't. Miss Landers, Please tell my mother that people cannot give themselves hiccups. — Blameless, In California

Dear B.C.: Sorry, lambchop, people CAN give themselves hiccups. I'm not saying you do, but it can be done. There are many ways to stop hiccups. The method that works best for me is this: Take a glass of water, sip slowly and hold your breath as long as you can between sips.

It's Fantastic

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a woman wrote about "these poor disabled people in wheelchairs who are denied a sex life." I believe your readers deserve to hear the facts from someone who knows them — first hand.

Severely disabled people, paraplegics, quadriplegics and others can and do have a fulfilling sex life — and I know because I'm an attractive, able-bodied woman in love with a "quad." I assure you that our sex life is fantastic by any standards. No, we cannot complete sexual intercourse, but he is the sexiest man I know.

— Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11996, Chicago, Ill. 60611

Your Birthday

Saturday Sept. 24, 1977

A rise in status and advancement where your career is concerned is likely this coming year. Unusual situations and conditions will be contributing factors.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Success is likely today where your work or career is concerned, provided you handle what's expected of you responsibly. Find out to whom you're romantically suited by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10018. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Play life as if it were a game today. You could be extremely lucky in matters where you don't let yourself get upright.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A situation that's been a thorn in your side should begin to alter more to your liking today. The change will come unexpectedly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a strong possibility you may cross paths today with someone who has previously been lucky for you. The magic is still intact.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Joint ventures aren't promising profitwise for you today. However, enterprises where you perform on your own are.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Anxieties regarding how you will be accepted by someone you hope to impress are unfounded. You'll be a big hit.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It could prove foolish to trust your luck fully today. You may come out all right, but your chances are just so-so.

TAURUS (April 20-May 19) Things may not initially go too well with a close friend today. Should this occur, put matters right with a grand unselfish gesture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're lucky today where you are not involved with people with whom you have close emotional ties. With loved ones, it's another story.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Early in the day it may appear as if the odds are stacked against you. Conditions become more fortunate by evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Stickling to your purpose has its merits, but today you will find that a little flexibility is better than holding to a rigid line.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Even though people you deal with today will fail to adhere to your standards, keep in mind you and they are only human.

U.S. Banker Says Midwest Economy Rising

Business conditions in the Midwest are looking up this year and show signs of further expansion next year, the vice president and economist for the Federal Reserve bank in Chicago says.

"We're appreciably better off this year in the Midwest than we were a year ago and the economic signs suggest further expansion although we have a lot of lost ground to make up," George Cloos said in an interview yesterday. But he said the Midwest still lags behind other regions in economic development, especially the South.

Cloos was interviewed yesterday afternoon at the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce headquarters in Benton Harbor. In the evening, he addressed a meeting of Michigan Chapter of the American Marketing Association at Berrien Hills Country club last night. Chatting with Cloos are Marilyn Schmitz (left), chapter president, and Nancy Briggs, association member. (Staff photo)

tion at Berrien Hills Country club.

The Federal Reserve bank in Chicago, one of 12 Federal Reserve banks in the U.S. Federal Reserve system, covers lower Michigan and most of Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa.

The federal reserve banks are "bankers' banks" in that they receive deposits, make loans, and collect checks from commercial banks. In addition, they have the power to issue federal reserve notes and act as fiscal agents of the U.S.

While predicting an upturn in the Midwest economy, Cloos said the more favorable economic conditions appear to be more beneficial to consumers than business. Near record agricultural production this year in the Midwest drove down meat and grain prices for the consumer, he said, but cut income for farmers.

Cloos also said the economic outlook for the Midwest is still behind the rest of the country, particularly the the South, which, he said, is experiencing a "powerful" trend in business and industrial expansion. "That trend does not look like it will change soon," he said. "Especially when we're experiencing increasing energy problems which has put another card in the deck in their favor."

Lance's Financial Affairs Face 'Full Steam' Probe

By MARGARET GENTRY

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is pledging "full steam ahead" in the criminal investigation of Bert Lance's financial affairs, despite President Carter's assertion that Lance committed no crimes.

"This is an independent investigation and it's going to continue," Deputy Atty. Gen. Peter Flaherty said in an interview Thursday.

He said Carter's assertions of Lance's innocence would have no effect on the department investigation and the ultimate decision about prosecution.

But Carter's statements aroused at least mild concern among some veteran prosecutors who called it improper for the President to make such a public declaration while the investigation is pending.

As one former department official put it: "Yes, any prosecutor would be somewhat chagrined by pre-judgment on the part of a chief executive. But it doesn't really do anything to the substance of the investigation."

At the Wednesday news conference announcing Lance's resignation as director of the Office of Management and Budget, the President said: "There has always been a possibility that in the last week's Senate hearings that Bert could not answer the allegations adequately, that he would prove to have violated a law. That was not the case."

At another point, Carter referred to allegations of impropriety and illegality in Lance's business dealings and said all of them "have been proven false and without foundation."

Department officials involved in the case were reluctant to discuss their reaction to Carter's statements.

Flaherty, asked whether he was concerned by Carter's assertion of Lance's innocence, paused for long moments before pleading, "Don't ask me that question."

Then he said he believed Carter based his remarks on the investigative reports he had read and "these people here in the department will see much more."

Flaherty asserted that Carter's statements would have no effect on the investigation and said, "I think he would want it that way."

Flaherty said he spoke Thursday with two of the three department lawyers handling the case and assured them that the investigation would continue "as expeditiously as possible."

The board said it wanted to "make it crystal clear to all the ABC establishments that they must abide by the law."

A D.C. official said the board's decision dramatized the need to overhaul the city's restaurant licensing practices.

"Any 12-year-old can walk into a topless joint that has a restaurant license, order a coke and watch the girls until his eyes give out," the official said.

Under D.C. law there is no classification for "nightclub" or "cabaret." A profit-making establishment that sells liquor for consumption on the premises must also offer food.

Maria Willett, manager of the Gold Rush, a club featuring topless dancers, said her place serves food, "but we can't force anybody to eat."

She said she thought a new classification for nightclubs and cabarets might be a good idea. "I certainly wouldn't want to bring my children in here for lunch."

owned or leased by his Georgia banks for personal and political trips. The question is whether that practice violated laws against political contributions by banks or misapplication of bank funds.

The possibility of illegal political contributions also arises in bank overdrafts by Lance's campaign committee when he ran for governor of Georgia in 1974 and lost.

The Federal Elections Commission, the Internal Revenue Service and the Securities and Exchange Commission are investigating various aspects of the allegations against Lance.

Carter's Senate Allies Stalling On Natural Gas Price Controls

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's allies in the Senate, whipped in a test vote on natural gas price controls, are falling back on delay tactics and the threat of a filibuster to postpone a final decision.

With continued debate scheduled today, two Democratic foes of deregulation, Sens. Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio and James Abourezk of South Dakota, said they were ready to offer more than 100 amendments in an attempt to block a final vote.

Metzenbaum said he was prepared for a "full discussion on the issue," a Senate euphemism for filibuster.

There was no sign that White House advisers were supporting a filibuster, and the President, who lobbied personally Thursday in a losing cause, was described as still hopeful deregulation would be rejected.

The President's energy plan, already approved by the House, calls for a 30-cent increase in the price of natural gas, now set at $1.48 per thousand cubic feet. Controls also would be extended to currently unregulated gas sold within producing states, mainly Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

An alternate industry-backed plan calls for an immediate end of controls on newly produced onshore gas. Price controls would be removed from offshore gas over five years.

Under either plan, consumers will be paying larger heating bills in the future, although estimates vary of the effect of the two plans.

A Congressional Budget Office study says Carter's plan would mean an average consumer would be paying $42.80 a month for heating by 1985, but $55.80 under the industry plan.

Deregulation backers dispute the estimate and say consumers won't be hit that hard.

The defeat for the administration came on a motion to scrap the industry plan, backed by Sen. James Pearson, R-Kans., and Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex. The vote to keep the plan alive was 52-46, a result that the President's floor managers said means almost certain death for the administration's natural gas plan when it comes up for a final vote.

The setback is not the first for the administration's energy plan.

Senate committees have discarded proposals to tax cars that use gasoline inefficiently and to overhaul electric utility rate structures.

The proposed crude oil tax appears doomed unless it is coupled with a plan to pump its revenues into energy exploration. In addition, the full Senate has watered down the administration's plan to force utilities to use more coal.

More bad news for the administration's energy plan came Thursday from the General Accounting Office, which said Carter's goal of doubling U.S. coal production to 1.2 billion tons by 1985 is unlikely to be met.

"So many interrelated elements would have to work to double coal production by 1985 that (the agency) does not believe it could happen," said the GAO, a congressional agency.

After the deregulation vote, Jackson predicted the President would veto the section of the energy package if it reached the White House with deregulation intact.

The House has firmly supported the President's overall energy package including euthanized natural gas controls. It is not clear what the result of a House-Senate conference committee meeting on the issue would be, but a fight on the question could tie up all of Carter's complex energy proposals.

'Pot' Thieves Crack Government Storeroom

MIAMI (AP) — Thieves who took 63 bales of seized marijuana from a U.S. Customs storeroom apparently entered the room by removing concrete blocks from a wall and then carefully replaced the blocks when they left, officials said. The marijuana, about 2,800 pounds with an estimated value of $750,000, was taken Thursday from a storeroom in an underground public parking garage, officials said.

Police and a Customs spokesman said the storeroom was equipped with automatic alarms and secured by single-locked metal doors front and rear. Customs officials said it appears the thieves may have entered through the wall because some concrete blocks appear to have been moved and put back in place.

Judge Removes Gag On Media In Sex Case

DETROIT (AP) — A federal judge says a lower court cannot restrict news media coverage of sexual abuse charges against a Roman Catholic priest.

After hearing testimony Thursday from two television reporters, U.S. District Judge James Churchill issued a preliminary injunction scrapping a Farmington District Court judge's gag order in the case.

Judge Churchill's ruling permits the news media to use any information they uncover in the case of Father Gary Berthiaume, 35, an assistant at Our Lady of Sorrows Church in Farmington.

The injunction, issued in response to a suit filed by WXYZ-TV and the Michigan Association of Broadcasters, also removes the threat of contempt citations against the television station, the Associated Press and the Detroit Free Press. All reported the priest's name in early coverage of the case.

In barring District Court Judge Michael Hand from issuing further gag orders in the case, Judge Churchill said a little-known Michigan statute authorizing such orders may be unconstitutional.

Judge Churchill made it clear his injunction does not bar Judge Hand from ordering court personnel, attorneys or police not to talk about the case.

"Judge Hand may issue all the suppression orders he likes," Judge Churchill said, "but he may not make them applicable to the press."

Judge Hand issued his court order restricting news coverage on Sept. 2 after the priest was charged with second-degree criminal sexual conduct for allegedly fondling a 14-year-old boy.

Father Berthiaume later was charged with a similar count in an incident allegedly involving a 13-year-old Oakland County boy, and Judge Hand issued a similar order in that case. A third criminal sexual conduct charge pending against the priest in Sanilac County is not affected by the injunction.

The statute under which the suppression orders were made is part of Michigan's landmark 1975 rape law. The law's author, Sen. Thomas D. Giastello, D-Sterling Heights, said he intended it primarily to protect victims of sexual abuse and encourage them to prosecute.

State officials say, however, that since the law's inception more defendants than victims have taken advantage of a provision that allows suppression of names and details in sex cases until a trial is ordered or the case dismissed.

DON'T REORDER, GROCERS TOLD

Phosphate Cleaners On Wane

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Grocers and other retailers with phosphate-based detergents on the shelf will be allowed to sell them before switching to non-phosphorus detergents.

State officials are warning them, however, not to order any more detergents high in phosphorus under a state ban which takes effect Oct. 1.

A Wayne County Circuit Court judge upheld the state ban earlier this week. The judge disagreed with the Soap and Detergent Association's claim that makers of laundry detergents would suffer irreparable harm because of the ban.

Judge Theodore Bohn said the state's interest in protecting its water resources outweighed the concern of soap manufacturers.

The ban doesn't mean detergents must be absolutely free of phosphates. Detergents can contain up to one-half of 1 per cent phosphorus, a limit set by the Natural Resources Commission which approved the ban. The limit is the smallest amount that can be accurately detected by tests.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and Natural Resources Director Howard Tanner cautioned retailers Thursday to make certain all new orders placed with suppliers specify a phosphate content lower than the state limit.

Tanner and Kelley said laundry detergents containing more than half of 1 per cent phosphorus could be seized and legal action taken against manufacturers, formulators, processors and packaging firms responsible.

Failure to comply with the ruling could mean a fine of $10,000 daily.

State officials said it will take several weeks for all phosphate detergents to be sold from store shelves, but they expect no problems enforcing the ban. They also said the ban will make little or no difference in the price consumers pay for detergents or in cleaning efficiency.

"The ban will make for a substantial improvement in the quality of water in our state, and that is something that everyone who has worked toward this ruling can be proud of," Kelley and Tanner said in a joint statement.

Despite the court ruling upholding the ban, an attorney for the Soap and Detergent Association said he probably will appeal. Also pending is a lawsuit by the association challenging the Natural Resources Commission's decision to ban phosphates. The association contends that only the legislature can enact such a ban.

Opponents have said phosphates probably cause premature aging of lakes and streams by promoting the growth of harmful algae and are a major pollutant of state watersways and the Great Lakes.

Soap Industry officials complained detergents containing no phosphates don't get clothes as clean, require additional bleaches and additives and tend to clog up washing machines.

Chastity Issue Leads To $1 Million Lawsuit

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — A 24-year-old Sicilian woman is suing her husband for $1 million, charging he hurt her reputation by telling people she was not a virgin when they were married three months ago.

Ama Buinello Ruffino contends in the suit filed in Macomb County Circuit Court that her husband's "scandalous, malicious" statements spread as far as Sicily.

"Some people may find humor in this, but it is a very serious case," said Mrs. Ruffino's attorney, Richard Wolk. "In our society, whether a woman is chaste when she is married doesn't mean that much," Wolk added. "But in the Sicilian community, it is a tradition and established custom that a woman getting married the first time be a virgin."

Michigan recently abolished a rule that prevented married people from suing their spouses. The suit has been assigned to Judge Raymond Cashen.

Mrs. Ruffino contends in the suit that on her wedding night, her husband, Salvatore, "accused (her) of falsely representing that she was chaste, expressed dissatisfaction because evidence was lacking of her chastity, and told her he would not remain married to a woman who was not a virgin."

Attorney Wolk said Ruffino telephoned the bride's relatives and friends the next day and made similar statements. "The gossip spread throughout the Sicilian community to Santa Clara, Calif., where Anna formerly resided, and even to Terracini, Sicily," Wolk said.

Ruffino, 30, who works in the construction business, could not be reached for comment.

Wolk said the Ruffinos' marriage was arranged through their two families after the couple met at a wedding in California, while Mrs. Ruffino lived there with her parents.

"When Salvatore went to California (to court Anna), he wasn't even allowed to date her. Anna has never been on a date in her life," the attorney said. The couple was married June 24 and stayed in a motel for five days. They have since separated, Wolk said.

"After the first night, Salvatore didn't touch her. He harassed her and wouldn't have anything to do with her. She couldn't sleep or eat," Wolk said. "We even have a letter from the physician stating that she was a virgin when she got married." Wolk said. "The physician even wrote a letter trying to convince the husband."

The lawyer said Mrs. Ruffino had suffered a "permanent loss of acceptable social standards" in the Sicilian community and that it will be difficult for her to marry again.

'Curly' Collins Comes Away With His Third $100,000 Win

DETROIT (AP) — Realous "Curly" Collins is piling another $100,000 atop his Michigan lottery winnings, bringing his three-week total to $300,000 and saying he plans to make it 10 in a row. Collins, a maintenance mechanic at the Clinton Valley Center in Pontiac, Mich., returns next week to shoot for the four-time "superplayer" record held by Mrs. Margaret Peters. She collected $412,000 in four appearances on the televised Michigan game show.

The 46-year-old Collins was cheered on by 16 relatives, including his wife, Katherine, and appeared much calmer than during his first two appearance. Other winners in the Thursday drawing were Joseph Babich, 63, Madison Heights, $16,000; Thomas McGuiness, 25, Saugard; $15,000; Mario Sidini, 66, Madison Heights, $13,000; James Duffy, 36, Mount Clemens, $9,000; Grace Lietz, 59, Roseville, $7,000; and Evelyn Sexton, 55, Vernon, $5,000.

Tandem Tanker Curbs Advance To Full House

By ROB WILSON

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Tandem tankers with safety problems would be banned from Michigan highways under a bill before the state House.

The bill, calling for the inspection and certification of the "double-bottom" tankers, cleared the House Committee on Roads and Bridges on Thursday.

Although the committee discussed taking action to ban the tankers from Michigan highways, the bill that was approved would ban only vehicles found to have safety problems.

"The people of Michigan are asking that strict measures be taken, and we are taking them."

LMC Prof Ending Year On Committee

Paul F. Gerhard, Lake Michigan college journalism professor, has completed his term as a member of the National Council of College Publications Advisers' 1977 awards committee.

Awards committee members serve one-year terms and are selected annually from the roster of active NCCPA members who have had extensive experience in advising student publications.

The committee, chaired this year by Prof. Richard Sublette of the University of Illinois and consisting of seven university and college journalism faculty members and advisers from throughout the U.S., annually selects the outstanding NCCPA publications advisers.

Eight such advisers were chosen by the committee to be honored at the NCCPA convention in New Orleans in October. Four winners, to be revealed at the convention, were designated 1977 Distinguished Advisers. An additional four will receive NCCPA Honor Roll awards.

Advisors and Honor Roll award recipients represent four-year university and two-year college newspapers, yearbooks and magazines. Gerhard in 1978 was named NCCPA Distinguished Adviser for two-year college newspapers.

The awards committee examined publications and credentials of more than 30 nominees, including statements by present and former students, local professional media representatives, university and college officials, and the nominees themselves.

"There have been seven tanker accidents in the Detroit area since the first of the year, killing three people and injuring nine," Rep. Dennis Hertz, D-Detroit, introduced a bill Wednesday to ban the tankers entirely.

Industry spokesman told the Roads and Bridges Committee on Thursday the tandem tankers were no more dangerous than single tankers. They also said a ban on the tandems would lead to a decline in the availability of gas and heating oil and possibly increase prices.

The tandem tankers are primarily carriers of gas and oil and their byproducts.

"Double bottoms are safe, and there are no statistics to prove that they're not," said Hugh Stults of Standard Oil. "If you ban the doubles, there's no way we can deliver our product."

He said he also was opposed to banning the tankers just during peak driving hours.

"If you have a curfew, it would be very, very difficult. We would have to go to more single tankers, and that would mean more trucks and more drivers delivering the same amount of fuel. The prices would go up."

Stults said he could not estimate how much fuel prices might go up if the tankers were banned.

Although she voted in favor of the bill, Rep. Rosetta Ferguson, D-Detroit, defended the oil companies.

"We should not crucify an industry that is trying to do a job for all the people of Michigan," she said. "We should find safer methods of dealing with the trucks instead of banning them."

Rep. Diana Wilson, D-Hazel Park, disagreed.

"I don't want to see double bottoms on the road. If nothing else, we should limit their weight and establish some kind of curfew. But I think we should phase out these monsters," he said.

Area Military Academy Panel Meeting

STURGIS — U.S. Fourth District Congressman Dave Stockman (R-St. Joseph) will hold an organizational meeting of his military service academy selection board here Saturday, according to a spokesman for the congressman. The purpose of the 12-member board is to review applications, interview candidates seeking nomination to the four service institutions and make nomination recommendations to Stockman, the spokesman said.

Deadline for receipt of all required documents and supporting information is Nov. 1 for high school seniors who will graduate in June, 1978. Stockman said that through his academy selection board, "...we will be able to ensure that the best qualified men and women represent the Fourth District at the service academies."

Stockman's spokesman said members of the board are

William Barrett, Coloma school superintendent; Drew Claes, Coldwater; Mrs. Barry Davis, St. Joseph; Dr. John Dawson, Adrian; Mrs. Lee Evans, Sturgis; Richard Higgs, Stevensville; Rev. Dennis Odeirk, Sturgis; Milton Porter, Adrian; Capt. Vincent Schumacher, USN Ret.; South Haven; William Teeple, Niles; Dr. Aaron Warren, Cassopolis; and F. Eugene Welper, Jr., Hillsdale.

In addition, two local "outreach" representatives for the U.S. Military Academy, Earl Gilmore and Howard Heimke, both of St. Joseph, will serve as advisers to the board. Stockman's spokesman said, "Qualifications for applying for admission to the Air Force, Naval, Military or Merchant Marine academies are: Be at least 17 but not more than 22; be a citizen of the U.S.; not be married, pregnant, or have a legal obligation to support a child or children."

It's A Dismal Year For Steel

By DALE TABORT

Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The nation's steel industry, faced with sluggish demand, increased foreign competition and declining profits, is laying off thousands of workers and cutting production.

Whatever happens in the industry is likely to be felt by all consumers because steel is used in everything from paper clips to railroad tracks.

The largest single impact is on the auto industry. Some Detroit analysts are predicting the sticker price of 1978 models will go up by as much as $300, at least in part because of increasing steel costs.

"We may well be past the point of salvation for some steel producers," C. William Verity, chairman of Armer Steel Corp., told a House trade subcommittee this week.

First half steel profits, at $289.5 million, were 80 per cent below those reported a year earlier despite a 7 per cent sales gain. At that rate, the industry will end 1977 with its worst results since 1971.

The crisis has already led to one bankruptcy and a flurry of layoffs, including those in steel towns like Youngstown, Ohio, where Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. plans to dismiss 5,000 persons within three months.

Neither steel industry sources nor the United Steelworkers could say Thursday just how many workers are out of work, but estimates range up to 100,000.

The pace of cutbacks has picked up since mid-year.

About 3,000 steelworkers were laid off when the Alan Wood Steel Co., in suburban Philadelphia, went bankrupt after losing $34.4 million over the last three years.

Bethlehem Steel, the nation's second-largest producer, said it would lay off 7,300 workers in flood-ravaged Johnstown, Pa., and Lackawanna, N.Y., after losing $75.4 million through June 30.

U.S. Steel, the nation's largest producer, has announced some layoffs, including 200 in the Youngstown area. It has also asked 10,000 management employees to forego a cost-of-living increase.

Other producers have either announced reductions or are considering them. More cuts are likely.

"It takes a good deal of courage to do what they're doing, but it seems there's little alternative," said a university analyst.

The retrenchment is a short-term solution to the industry's besses. It could trigger action to shore up the sagging industry by the government, which has been reluctant to act.

Some analysts argue the current crisis may be healthy, however, because it may eliminate marginal firms and

The American Iron and Steel Institute, a trade association representing 95 per cent of the nation's producers, estimates that imports will account for 19 per cent of the domestic market in 1977.

These imports have absorbed foreign mills.

U.S. Steel Corp. this week asked the Treasury Department for relief under a 1921 Anti-Dumping Act, which provides for duties on products marketed unfairly. It acted after the Carter administration rejected import quotas as a form of relief.

"Our government is helping foreign industries at the expense of steel companies and steel employees here at home by ignoring the fact that most of this steel trade is unfair and illegal," said Chairman Edgar B. Speer.

Imports have been particularly damaging in view of a worldwide slump in steel demand.

An analyst said the market is bad for capital goods, such as machinery and tools, which normally account for 80 per cent of all steel consumed in the United States. They also generate greater profits.

Town Is 'Hot Spot' For Hodgkin's Disease

BRECKENRIDGE, Mich. (AP) — State and federal health officials are trying to discover why Hodgkin's disease is 12 times more common among residents of this tiny town than it is anywhere else in the nation. Fourteen cases of the disease, lymph node cancer, have been found in the Gratiot County community over a 20-year period, said Joseph Latoff, health officer for the Mid-Michigan District Health Department. Officials said some of those afflicted have died. There is no known cause for the disease.

Dr. Richard Yuriam, medical director for the district health department, said the normal rate of Hodgkin's disease is 3.5 cases per 100,000 people. Agencies probing the causes have been unable to determine a possible cause for the high incidence in the town of 1,275 people. Among agencies involved in the probe are the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, the state Department of Public Health, a researcher from University Hospital in Ann Arbor and the district health department. Officials acknowledged the investigation began about six months ago. The probe was disclosed Wednesday. Latoff said the matter was kept quiet because, "In the present state of our knowledge, we have had no data."

Reeling Industry Cuts Back On Employees And Production

leave a stronger, more profitable steel industry.

"Maybe we will be stronger," an industry spokesman said. "But in the meantime there are going to be all those thousands of people out of work. Towns like Youngstown may not be the last. Hell, Pittsburgh's not immune."

The industry is struggling with a number of problems, some historic, some political. Imports are its principle target, however.

74 per cent of the market's growth, forcing American producers to look for profits in the narrow gap between rising costs and low prices.

Producers contend that other nations, particularly Japan, have exported unemployment by subsidizing steel dumped in the United States at prices below the cost of production.

About 67,000 steelworkers have been reclassified to receive trade adjustment assistance because their jobs were lost in the last three years.

Bethlehem Steel, the nation's second-largest producer, said it would lay off 7,300 workers in flood-ravaged Johnstown, Pa., and Lackawanna, N.Y., after losing $75.4 million through June 30.

U.S. Steel, the nation's largest producer, has announced some layoffs, including 200 in the Youngstown area. It has also asked 10,000 management employees to forego a cost-of-living increase.

'Girlfriend' Really Had Him Fooled

SEATTLE (AP) — A 24-year-old man here shot his girlfriend when he found out she was really a he, police say. A 20-year-old man told police he is a transvestite and had been impersonating a woman for several weeks until his roommate discovered the truth Thursday.

He was reported in satisfactory condition at Harborview Medical Center with a wound in the right cheek. Police said the man had decided not to press charges against the roommate because the shot appeared to be accidental and the gun was meant only to frighten him. Police found a .32-caliber pistol outside the Columbian Way apartment where the shooting occurred. Police did not identify the two.

Town Won't Pay Its Bill

Natural Gas Cutoff Looms

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP) — Crystal City, the "Spinach Capital of the World" with a statue of "Popeye the Sailor Man" to prove it, battled the local gas company for more than two years. It finally lost.

In defeat the townspeople, mostly Mexican-Americans half of whom are on welfare, were scurrying about in search of firewood, charcoal or butane to cook with. What amounted to a free supply of natural gas ends today. "I guess we're going to be like General Robert E. Lee. I guess it's a surrender," said Mayor Francisco Benavides. "We've fought as hard as we know how, but there's nothing else we can do. We just throw in the towel."

For 2½ years the town's municipal utility which serves 2,000 customers of Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. has refused to pay its bill, now almost $800,000. The town claims its 8,000 people simply didn't have the money. The utility had kept the gas flowing through legal maneuvers, the last of which was resolved Thursday.

Liquid Protein Recalled Because Of 'Bad Batch'

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 12,500 gallons of liquid protein, manufactured by a New Jersey company and used in modified-fast diets, is being recalled by the Food and Drug Administration because of bacterial contamination.

An FDA spokesman said the recall order applied to 20 lots of the protein manufactured by Peerpax Corp., of Hackensack, N.J., and distributed nationwide under nine different brand names.

Some also was shipped unlabeled to distributors.

"We're not recalling all liquid protein used in the fast diets," the spokesman said. "This is just a bad batch."

The recall order applies in the following labels: Gro-Lean Liquid Protein Fortified with L-Tryptophane, Med Liquid Protein, Ideal Weight Liquid Protein, Hudson Liquid Protein, Slim-Fast, Protein Power Diet, Rock Honey's Mr. Universe and Terri's Miss Universe Liquid Protein, PLP Liquid Protein, and Nu-Paradiso Liquid Protein.

when the state Supreme Court declined to step into the case. The day before, an appeals court in El Paso buried further legal proceedings and gave Lo-Vaca the okay to shut off the gas.

In the unregulated Texas gas market, Lo-Vaca had given Crystal City a break, charging only 36 cents per thousand cubic feet on gas it could have sold for as much as 82. Still, Crystal City said it couldn't pay and there the matter rested until Thursday.

Mayor Benavides, though resigned to the shut-off, flew to Washington to appeal to Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen. "We don't expect miracles, but we have to try. There's no doubt in anyone's mind there will be a cutoff," said the mayor who a few months ago had defied "even Gov. Dolph Briscoe's gendarmes" to try to stop the gas from coming in. "I don't know what we will do without gas and I don't know how long we will be without," he said. "But this is America. If we can put a man on the moon, somehow we can find gas for a small Texas city."

Union Vote Set At South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — Thirty-nine South Haven city employees will vote Oct. 26 on whether to join the Teamsters union, a Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) representative has determined.

The employees work in the city's public works and street departments and as clerical staff at city hall. They are currently members of the Independent Municipal Employees union. The vote will determine membership in Local 214 of the teamsters union.

The city's eight full-time firemen voted not to ballot on the teamsters question and will continue to negotiate as an independent union, according to City Manager Paul Sharon. City policemen negotiate through the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP).

Sharon said a MERC hearing officer determined Wednesday that a sufficient number of employees (30 per cent) had signed petitions seeking the new affiliation.

The employees have been without a contract since April 15, and had been on strike one week during July after talks broke down.

Sharon said there would be no further negotiations until after the Oct. 26 election.

The election by city employees means all three local governmental blocks of employees in South Haven are seeking new union representation. Teachers in the South Haven school system will vote Oct. 6 on whether to join the Van Buren county education association while employees of the South Haven Community hospital will ballot Oct. 21 on joining the Service Employees International union.

Watervliet Seeks Plan To Repair Old School

NOMINEE: James S. Brady, 33,

"This building has been closed as a school facility and if it is going to be used again..."

The violations must be corrected, according to an August report filed by Det. Sgt. Al Hughes of the state fire marshal's office in Paw Paw.

Michael Williamson, administrative assistant at the school, said it has been estimated that it would cost about $125,000 to bring the 51-year-old building into compliance with the fire safety code.

That figure was based on a 1973 estimate, he said.

He added that school officials are planning to hire an architectural firm to give an updated estimate on how much the repairs would cost.

School officials were to meet with four architectural firms today to select one firm for the estimate survey, Williamson said.

Among the violations outlined by the fire marshal, school officials said, are lack of non-flammable materials on band room and other walls; entire building needs new wiring; and two fire escapes must be installed in the two-story building.

In July, the school board voted not to use the middle school in the coming year because of the alleged fire code deficiencies and a possible weakness in the building's roof.

At that time, Supt. Samuel Gravitt estimated it would take about $100,000 to make the building safe for use.

Drunk Or Sober, It's Costly

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to raise fines for drunk driving and an alternative transportation package will be introduced in the state House, lawmakers say.

Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, D-Battle Creek, said Thursday his bill will raise the maximum penalty for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs from $100 to $500. He said the fine is not a deterrent to drunk driving.

Rep. Thomas Brown, D-Westland, said he will introduce a transit package as an alternative to the one agreed to by Gov. William Milliken and leading Democrats.

Brown said his package would produce about $221 million in new revenues, compared to about $165 from the agreement between the governor and top lawmakers. It features a two-cent-a-gallon increase in the gas tax and an average increase in license plate fees of 25 per cent.

Brown said his package would also redistribute the Motor-Vehicle Highway Fund to provide more money for counties, cities and villages. And he would tag part of the sales tax revenue from car sales, parts dealers and gas stations for a "general transportation fund" to finance public transportation.

The plaintiffs, Harvey and

Beth Jones, of Route 4, seek any amount of damages over

$10,000. The suit claims Mrs.

Jones on Aug. 26, 1976, paid a fee to swim at the pool during public use hours, and broke her neck when she dove into the water and struck her head on the bottom.

The suit claims the school

Holland Blaze Hits Apartments

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) — Authorities are investigating a blaze that gutted the top floor of an apartment building, forcing more than a dozen residents to flee in their nightclothes and causing up to $150,000 damage. The fire broke out just before midnight Thursday in an eight-unit building in the Meadowlawn apartment complex on the south side of Holland. Firemen said the flames were visible for three miles. The blaze was under control in about two hours, but not before four apartments were destroyed and four others damaged by smoke and water. Three firemen suffered minor injuries but the residents escaped safely.

Bridgman Is Sued In Pool Accident

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON

Staff Writer

A Stevensville couple has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court against the Bridgman school system, claiming the woman broke her neck when she dived into the swimming pool at the high school.

The plaintiffs, Harvey and Beth Jones, of Route 4, seek any amount of damages over $10,000. The suit claims Mrs. Jones on Aug. 26, 1976, paid a fee to swim at the pool during public use hours, and broke her neck when she dove into the water and struck her head on the bottom.

The suit claims the school failed to post any signs warning of unsafe diving areas. St. Joseph Atty. James McQuillan, who filed the suit, said Mrs. Jones underwent surgery and is not paralyzed from the injury.

In another suit, Robert V. Boroniuski, of Berrien Springs, seeks any amount over $10,000 for injuries he allegedly sustained in a car-tractor accident Sept. 28, 1974, on Jones road in Berrien township.

The suit contends Boroniuski was driving a car on Jones road when a tractor crossed the center line and hit the auto, causing back and shoulder injuries to Boroniuski.

Named defendants in the suit were Roy Prillwitz, doing business as Prillwitz Farms of Berrien Springs, and Armando Rodriguez, an employee of the farm and alleged driver of the tractor.

John Toohey, left, manager of Benton Harbor branch of Automobile Club of Michigan (AAA), presents plaque commending Coloma township for its record of no pedestrians killed in traffic accidents in 1976. Accepting award are Coloma township Police Chief Robert (Phil) Cottier, center, and township Supervisor Rodney Krueger. Presentation was made yesterday during meeting of Twin Cities Safety and Traffic committee at St. Joseph Holiday Inn. Committee is sponsored by AAA and is made up of police, judges, school officials concerned with busing, and local street and highway officials. (Staff photo)

Bo Has Plenty Of Respect For Undefeated Middies

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The Citadel and Connecticut aren't exactly college football powerhouses.

"But Navy defeated them and will win many more games this season," believes Michigan coach Bo Schembechler.

He's just hoping his Wolverines — who host the Middies on Saturday — aren't among the victims, especially after the way they struggled to a 21-9 victory over Duke last week while ranked No. 1 in the country.

Another Michigan Stadium crowd of 104,000 is anticipated for this week's game. It'll be the 11th consecutive 100,000-plus home attendance figure for the Maize and Blue.

"Navy's gonna win eight or nine games this year," Schembechler said earlier this week.

"They play Michigan, Pittsburgh and Notre Dame. They're gonna get one of the three. Maybe two of the three. And they should beat their other opponents."

"I like this Navy team," Schembechler said. "There's something there, boy."

Reporters have tended to scoff at Schembechler's habit of insisting every opponent will be tough. In the past, he would do that and then his team would almost invariably win by a hefty margin.

However, after the Duke fiasco critics are liable to put a little more stock in his insistence that Navy is really good — even though the Wolverines whupped the Middies 70-14 last year. In 1974 they clobbered them 52-0.

Coach George Welsh's team opened the season with a 21-2 triumph over The Citadel, then crushed Connecticut 38-7 to run its winning streak to five games.

The Middies have three Michigan players in their starting lineup, fullback Larry Kluwinski and defensive end Bart Nixon, both of Bay City, and center Ray Fritsch of East Detroit. Second string defensive tackle Jim Borsum is from Battle Creek.

Navy's top yardage man is tailback Joe Gatuso, whose determination helps make up for a lack of great speed. He's rushed for 187 yards in 34 carries for a 5.5 average.

Although not getting much playing time, his backup Steve Callahan — a freshman — has turned seven points for 10 yards piled up 114 yards in just 12 carries for a 9.5 average.

Kluwinski has a 3.9 average with 86 yards in 22 tries.

Bob Leszczynski quarterbacked the Middies. He has completed 18 of 37 passes for 261 yards and two touchdowns. One of his targets is split end Phil McConkey, who has caught four for 67 yards. McConkey has turned seven points for 10 yards and a kickoff for 21.

Schembechler calls McConkey "a great player." He also singled out Callahan, Gatuso, and safety Mike Galpin.

Top players for Michigan, 2-0, include quarterback Rick Leach, fullback Russell Davis, end John Anderson — defensive champion of the week from the Duke game — and linebacker Ron Simpkins.

Ranger Ace Fires No-Hitter

Gem For Blyleven

ANAHEIM (AP) — "It was like the world stopped when Thad Bosley swung at that last pitch," said an exultant Bert Blyleven after firing a no-hitter, the third of the major league season and the first of his career.

"I hope I can do it again some day," the Texas Rangers hurler said after fanning rookie Bosley for a 6-0 blanking of the California Angels Thursday night. The victory kept the Rangers in the American League West race for at least another day.

Sidelined since Sept. 6 with a pulled muscle in his groin, Blyleven returned with a flourish. The 26-year-old seemed destined for such a feat. He has four one-hitters to his credit and is currently just 20 strikenouts away from 200, a plateau he has reached in each of the last six seasons.

Blyleven said he began thinking in terms of a no-hitter early in the game.

"I first realized it in the second inning when I looked at the scoreboard and saw that (Angel pitcher Paul) Hartzell had one going and I thought it sure would be nice.

In the third and fourth innings I really started to concentrate on a no-hitter and the next thing I knew it was the eighth inning."

Blyleven received a temporary setback with two outs in the eighth. On a 3-1 pitch to

Mario Guerrero he said he pulled the groin again. Blyleven said he never saw Guerrero foul the pitch off "but I thought by the sound of it that he had gotten a hit."

Blyleven, 14-12, faced only 28 batters, one over the minimum. Jon Jackson reached first base safely leading off the third inning on an error by Texas shortstop Bert Campanaris, but Andy Etchebarren grounded into an inning-ending double play.

After Jackson got aboard, Blyleven retired the next 19 batters before pinch-hitter Carlos May drew a walk on a 3-2 pitch with two outs in the bottom of the ninth. Bosley then struck out for the third time to end the game.

Blyleven said he used his curve ball, the pitch he's best known for, exclusively in the ninth.

"I threw about 60 percent curve balls in the game," he said. "My leg doesn't bother me that much when I throw curves."

He struck out seven, including the side in the seventh inning.

Blyleven, who was born in Zeist, Holland, moved to Southern California as a youngster, where he attended Santiago High in nearby Garden Grove. His brother, Jim, also a pitcher, was selected by the Angels in the free agent draft last June.

Blyleven now lives in nearby Mission Viejo. His wife, parents and in-laws are still in attendance against the Eagles.

"The rookie in me came out," Hedberg said. "I will again. I just must learn to avoid making the same mistakes a second time."

After Minnesota's 16-10 opening loss to Dallas, Coach Bud Grant said "I was pleased with everything but the score...it was a game between a couple of somewhat similar teams."

"I guess the difference could have been that we lost two fumbles and three interceptions."

"Our major aim for the upcoming season is to get back to where we were. In order to improve, obviously, we've got to win the Super Bowl."

The Rangers made it 5-0 in the sixth on singles by Sundberg and Dave May and a double play. Texas' final run came in the seventh on a double by Washington and a single by Horton.

Ailing Bell Is Expected To Start Against Vikings

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Despite a bone chip in his ankle, top draft pick Ricky Bell is scheduled to start at running back Saturday when the Tampa Bay Buccaneers take on Fran Tarkenton and his National Football Conference champion Minnesota Vikings.

The heavily-favored Vikings are looking for their first victory of the new National Football League season.

The Bucs, also 0-1, are looking for their first regular-season victory ever.

Last year, the Bucs went 0-14 while the Vikings made their fourth losing trip to the Super Bowl.

Although Coach John McKay isn't expected to announce the starting lineup until this afternoon, Bucs officials say Bell has been working out in pads and is ready.

The 22-year-old University of Southern California standout has had trouble with his right ankle for about three weeks. He complained that he had lost speed in last week's 13-3 loss to Philadelphia and asked to be taken out of the game.

Bell said afterwards that it didn't hurt while he was on the field, but tightened up while he was on the bench.

Team physicians hope the chip will dissolve.

The Bucs added a sixth running back this week — Stan Wintrop, late of the Miami Dolphins — as insurance. This could allow them to rest Bell more during the games.

In gridiron action on Sunday, the New York Giants are at Dallas, Atlanta at Washington, Oakland at Pittsburgh, Seattle at Chehalis, Baltimore at New York Jets, Chicago at St. Louis, Houston at Green Bay, New Orleans at Detroit, San Diego at Kansas City, Buffalo at Denver, Miami at San Francisco, Philadelphia at Los Angeles.

On Monday, New England visits Cleveland.

Quarterbacking the Bucs will be rookie Randy Hedberg, out of Minot State, N.D. He led Tampa Bay to a 14-0 shutout over Baltimore in the preseason but managed only 10 completions in 25 attempts for 20 net yards.

St. Joseph Edges Lakeshore

Bucks, Rangers Stay Undefeated

Fast break basketball continues to spark the Buchanan and Cassopolis girls.

The Bucks and Rangers both kept their records unblemished Thursday, speeding to easy victories. Buchanan coasted past Benton Harbor 64-50 and Cassopolis destroyed Eau Claire 72-28.

In other Thursday games involving Blossomland teams, Berrien Springs ripped Brandywine 48-31, River Valley crushed New Buffalo 34-3, St. Joseph nipped Lakeshore 41-39, Dowagiac gunned down Decatur 82-47, Marcellus clipped Edwardsburg 46-36 and Watervliet nipped Coloma 38-37.

Patience Vonderbush led a balanced Buck attack with 23 points and 20 rebounds as the winners rolled to their third straight victory. Sharon Bott-man added 14, twins Karen and Lynn Bube each tallied nine and Tracee Hargreaves added seven.

The Bucks broke the game open in the third quarter, outscoring the Tigers 25-10 for a 50-32 lead. The game was never in doubt after that.

"I thought our running game, rebounding was better in the second half," Buck coach Ray Berry said. "We're running better and that's a key. We're looking for the fast break better than in the past."

Benton Harbor, now 3-2, got 17 points from Yvonne Abrom, 14 from Denise Boyd and 11 from Reatha Bragg.

Billee Goins continued her prolific scoring as Cass upped its record to 4-0. Goins tallied 20 points, a little bit under her 27.8 average. Roschell Ventress added 21 for the winners.

Kathy Rodell tallied 12 for Eau Claire, now 0-2.

Free throws were the difference in St. Joe's win over Lakeshore. The Lancers scored two more field goals than the Bears, but lost the game at the charity stripe. Each team had 26 foul shots, but St. Joe hit 15 and Lakeshore only nine.

It was a pair of free throws by Michelle Priefer in the final minute which won the game for the Bears, now 2-2.

Lakeshore, now 3-3, held a 37-32 lead with less than three minutes to play before St. Joe rallied for the win.

Pat Wampach led St. Joe with 12 points and 14 rebounds. Dee Gann added 10 points and Priefer had nine points and 11 caroms. St. Joe held a 30-41 board edge.

Kim Foster tossed in 12 points and Marlene Poldys added 10 for the Lancers.

Julie Gnodtke scored 14 points and pulled down 12 rebounds as River Valley won its first game in four starts. The Mustangs had a 22-1 half-time lead.

A cold Brandywine shooting eve helped Berrien win its first contest in three tries. The Bobcats hit just 14 of 84 from the floor, a frigid 17 per cent.

Berrien led just 20-14 at halftime, but broke the game open by outscoring Brandywine 18-4 in the third quarter.

Jackie Buckus tallied 12 points for the winners. Teresa Duncan scored nine for the Bobcats, now 1-2.

Dowagiac placed four girls in double figures in its easy win over Decatur. Vicki Williams tossed in 26 points for the Chieftains, now 2-1. Laurie Havel added 16, Kathy Leitke 12 and Cindy Steele 11.

Patti Lapekas tallied 17 for Decatur, which suffered its first setback after four wins. Judy Davis chipped in with 12.

Bonnie Kline scored 18 points and Jayne Klein added 10 as Marcellus gained revenge against Edwardsburg. The Ed-

Mets Are On Sane Path To Recovery: Grant

By WILL GRIMSLY
AP Special Correspondent

Many may suspect that the 1977 demise of the once proud New York Mets has failed to penetrate the seemingly cold facade of M. Donald Grant, but they can't see the agony that lies beneath the stiff white collar and blue-striped shirt of the chairman of the board.

"I feel as if I have been beaten to a pulp publicly," the gray-haired, 73-year financier said as he sat in his Wall Street offices and contemplated the end of the team's most demoralizing baseball season.

"If I were as hard, rich and unsentimental as I have been pictured, then one might assume that all that has happened to us hasn't affected me. I want you to know that I have suffered greatly. Our organization has suffered. Our loyal fans have suffered."

"It has been a horrible, very disturbing experience."

"We do not need to make excuses. We have nothing to defend. We believe the stand we have taken has been the most helpful one for both baseball and the fan."

"Some day clear-thinking people will see that the route we chose — the fun way, the fair way in this year of baseball crisis — was the same way. They will view it differently when our young team starts to mature and mature they will."

Grant, the Mets' chief executive officer since 1961, has been the target of abuse from those who blame him for the trading of ace pitcher Tom Seaver to the Cincinnati Reds and the disposal of Dave Kingman, now contributing his home run prowess to the New York Yankees.

Grant is unable to enter or leave Shea Stadium without drawing insults from young demonstrators. The organization has found it necessary to equip him with a bodyguard. Insulting telephone calls pour into his home and office. Pisces pen letters arrive "by the bundles." He even has had death threats, none taken too seriously.

"You know, we are known as a family team and the owners and officials don't sit in glass-enclosed cages away up in the stands," he said. "We always sit in an open box just back of the dugout. I never know when some crank will throw a bolt or bottle at me."

The Mets, who won the World Series in 1969 and barely missed after a second pennant in 1971, are currently in the cellar of the National League East, moving toward 100 defeats. Jerry Koosman, a 21-game winner in 1976, became a 20-game loser Wednesday night.

"We are the only expansion team ever to win a pennant or a World Series," Grant said. "I think we have a record as outstanding as that of any team in baseball."

The Mets' 1977 miseries can be traced directly, the chairman said, to what he calls "the Seaver-Kingman syndrome."

"The fans have been whipped into a frenzy by the totally unfair treatment of the situation," he argued. "We never wanted to trade Seaver. We never had a cross word with him. We gave Tom a three-year contract ($300,000 a year with escalating clauses) and he was happy with it."

"There was something behind the scenes, highly personal. Tom and Dave Kingman were neighbors and close friends. They had dogs from the same litter. Tom forced himself into a position from which he could not retreat."

"As for Kingman, he thought he could be another Babe Ruth. His demands were unrealistic. You can't pay 60 per cent of the payroll to 20 per cent of the players and expect the other 70 per cent to be happy."

Grant said he had been called a "coward" and a "fraud" and even criticized for using an initial for his first name.

"My first initial is for Michael," the name of my father," he said. "My mother didn't want two Michaels in the house so she called me Donny. My father was a Canadian hockey player who is in the Hockey Hall of Fame. When I came to New York I worked as a room clerk in the Commodore Hotel for $12 a month."

"I could have gone into pro hockey or pro golf. I took another route. I still play golf but my scores vary with the Mets. So right now I am pretty bad."

"My handicap? Baseball."

Sutter Gets 30th Save

Cubs Keep Phils On Hold

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "In my mind the Phillies have it clinched," said Bruce Sutter.

Sutter may believe the Phillies have the National League East division clinched with a 9½-game lead over second place Pittsburgh with 10 games to play. But he isn't about to help them clinch it.

Sutter came on in the eighth and gave up just one hit in chalking up his 30th save of the season in Chicago's 5-3 victory over the Phillies Thursday night. The victory went to reliever Paul Reuschel, who worked one inning in support of starter Dennis Lamp.

The Phillies appeared to agree with Sutter. They weren't concerned with losing two straight at home to the Cubs and walking a treadmill with that magic number of four — any combination of four Phillies' wins or Pirates' losses.

Phillies' manager Danny Ozark said his club is playing good ball and needs to get a few more runs on the scoreboard.

He looked like a guy counting his winnings.

Just a word of caution, however, no panic. The Phillies of 1964 were 6½ games ahead with 10 games to play. And do you remember what happened?

To refresh your memory they lost 10 straight and finished second! The Phillies took a 1-0 lead in the fourth off Lamp on consecutive singles by Greg Luzinski, Jay Johnstone and Charly Maddox.

But Chicago went ahead 2-1 in the fifth. Bobby Murcer singled and Steve Ontiveros walked.

Phils starter Jim Lomberg got the next two batters, intentionally walked Mick Kelheimer to load the bases, then gave up that two-run single to Lamp.

In the bottom of the fifth, Larry Biagi singled with two out and Mike Schmidt tripled. The Cubs took a 3-2 lead on Ontiveros' single in the sixth. However, the Phillies tied it on singles by Luzinski and Johnstone and Bob Boone's sacrifice fly in the bottom of the ninth.

Lomborg gave up the winning run in the seventh, walking Kelleher to start the inning. Reischel sacrificed Kelleher to second and Bittner singled in the winning run.

In other National League action San Diego edged Cincinnati 3-1, Atlanta whipped Houston 8-4 and Montreal blanked St. Louis

Apple Prices Agreed In Last Minute Rush

Many area processors waited until the Sept. 20 deadline before agreeing to the $7 per hundredweight price for sauce apples.

Tom Butler, chairman of the apple committee of MACMA (Michigan Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Association), said that Jen's, Silver Mills, Coloma Co-op, and Michigan Fruit Canners have all reached a price agreement with MACMA.

Processors will be paying $7 for hard variety apples 2½-inch-up, $6.50 for soft varieties the same size, and $4 for juice apples. Undersized apples will receive $3.75. Butler emphasized that these are the minimum base prices growers will receive.

Butler added that many processors will also pay $8.50 for Jonathan apples sizing 2½-inch-up. Silver Mills will pay $7.25 for Northern Spy apples sizing 2½-inch-up.

BH Market Is Topic Oct. 3

The possibility of buying or leasing the Benton Harbor Fruit Market will be discussed at a meeting to be held Monday, Oct. 3, at 8 p.m. in the basement of St. Joseph's Catholic church in Watervliet.

Glen Antle, district marketing agent, said that all interested parties are invited to attend the meeting. The purpose of the meeting will be to update growers on what information has already been obtained, and to organize for the next meeting.

"There is a good deal of misunderstanding as to what the exact situation is," Antle noted. "We want to consider the possibility of leasing as well as buying. It is also possible that a grower advisory board to work along with the city may be the only change decided upon. Of course, another alternative is simply to leave the market as it is. It may not be feasible to purchase or lease the facilities at all."

Antle said that the meeting, organized by Women for the Survival of Agriculture in Michigan (WSAM), will be the first of several to investigate the alternatives. Benton Harbor City Manager, Melvin Farmer, will be at the meeting to present the view of the city commission.

"There is no organized buyer's group yet," Antle commented. "So far, there are simply some interested growers. What we hope to get out of the meeting is a group or committee to look into all the possibilities and report back at another meeting. We want to hear any ideas growers may have on what can be done at this first meeting."

Opening Day Set For Clarksville

Activities heralding the official opening of Michigan State University's newest horticultural experiment station, near Clarksville, will take place Thursday, Sept. 29.

The new Clarksville Horticultural Experiment Station will eventually centralize much of the developmental vegetable, ornamental and fruit crops research.

The Clarksville station is located immediately south and west of I-96 Clarksville-Saranac interchange on Portland road in Iron County.

During the opening ceremonies horticultural scientists and administrators will provide a progress report on planned activities as well as a review of construction work at the headquarters area. At present, irrigation wells are being drilled and renovations to the manager's quarters are underway.

Dr. Sylvan Wittwer, director of the MSU Agricultural Experiment Station, says, "The future development of this research farm is an important part of the improvement of the Agricultural Experiment Sta-

TRAPPING SEASON OVER: Gene Robinson of MDA plant industry bureau removes gypsy moth trap from tree in area woodland. Over 200 traps failed to produce any gypsy moth specimens, and inspectors are confident moths have been eradicated. Scent attracts moth inside box where glue on inner surface traps it. Robinson said moth flying season is over and traps have been taken down for winter. (Staff photo)

NONE FOUND IN AREA TRAPS

Gypsy Moths Eliminated?

The gypsy moth control program in southwestern Michigan appears to be a success, according to Jim Brozovich, regional supervisor for the Michigan Department of Agriculture's plant industry bureau.

Brozovich said that around 200 gypsy moth traps set out this spring have not produced any specimens of the pest. The traps were set in the area where gypsy moths had been found in the past two years.

In May and June the MDA sprayed some 2,500 acres along the Lake Michigan beach area between Hagar and Covert townships. Brozovich said that five moths had been trapped in that area between 1975 and 1976.

The gypsy moth feeds on the leaves of hardwood forest trees, Brozovich stated, and will defoliate and eventually kill trees when the population buildup is great enough. The MDA has adopted a policy of total eradication of the pest once a specimen is found.

"We have walked through the entire area where the moths had been found previously," said Brozovich. "Luckily, it appears that no egg masses developed before we discovered the problem."

The gypsy moth was first found in Michigan in 1964 near Lansing. At the time, it was the first appearance of the moth west of Pennsylvania. Over 100,000 acres of central Michigan were sprayed immediately with a DDT-kerosene mixture applied at a rate of one gallon per acre over the area's woodlots.

The spray applied in southwestern Michigan this spring was Dimilin, Brozovich noted, a juvenile growth hormone that prevents the gypsy moth from reaching maturity. The chemical was found to be harmless to humans, birds, animals, or other insects. The Dimilin was applied at a rate of three-one hundredths of a pound diluted in one-half gallon of water for every acre.

Brozovich said that the traps will probably be set again next year as a precaution. The traps use a scent stimulant to lure the moth towards a glued surface. This year's traps produced only one moth of a different variety, and one chippingmunk.

Frost Damage Shows In Asparagus Survey

Southwestern Michigan continued to account for much of the state's asparagus crop in 1977, in spite of the damage produced by spring frosts.

A survey conducted by the Michigan Crop Reporting Service (CRS) this year shows that Van Buren, Berrien and Cass counties produced approximately one-third of the state's 19 million pound asparagus harvest. All three counties, however, were below the average per-acre production for the state.

Van Buren, with the second largest asparagus acreage in the state, had the second lowest acre average among the counties reported in the survey. Van Buren growers yielded an average 835 pounds of asparagus from each of the 4,965 acres harvested. The average yield throughout the state this year was 1,100 pounds per acre.

Berrien county averaged 800 pounds from each of the 1,470 asparagus acres harvested in 1977. Cass was closer to the state average with 855 harvested acres yielding around 1,035 pounds each.

Oceana county continued to produce the bulk of Michigan's asparagus crop in 1977 with over 7,500 acres harvested. Oceana farmers harvested almost 9 million pounds in 1977, amounting to about 45 per cent of the state's total. Their county averaged 1,180 pounds per acre. Michigan continued to rank third among asparagus producing states in the U.S. this year.

Lynn Shaw, CRS statistician, said that the asparagus survey was requested by industry officials to help determine the needs of the asparagus industry. The survey showed that over 93 per cent of the crop goes to processors, with roadside stands, fresh markets, and pick-your-own operations accounting for the rest.

The market price for wheat in southwestern Michigan this year was around $2 per bushel, and the national loan rate was $2.25. Both prices fell below the government target price of $2.47. Congress is now dealing with a new agricultural act that would raise the 1977 target price to $2.50.

Farmers who think they qualify for deficiency payments should contact the local ASCS office.

Francis also noted that wheat, soybean and shell corn farmers can now receive government loans to cover 100 per cent of their crop. Previous loans were limited to 90 per cent of the crop. The ear corn loan was raised from 85 per cent to cover 90 per cent of the harvested crop. Farmers wishing to use the additional rates will be charged a measurement fee of $6 per bin when ASCS representatives measure the harvested crop. The old loan rates will also be offered with no measurement requirements.

Thomas stated that a school on insect and disease control, cultural practices and management of blueberries would be held one night a week in January and February. The program would run for six weeks, and be held in South Haven. Thomas is requesting that interested growers contact him.

Blueberry School

A "winter school" program on the various phases of blueberry production will be offered if enough grower interest is shown, according to Mike Thomas, southwestern Michigan district horticultural agent.

Thomas stated that a school on insect and disease control, cultural practices and management of blueberries would be held one night a week in January and February. The program would run for six weeks, and be held in South Haven. Thomas is requesting that interested growers contact him.

Attention: Farmers who depend on fungicides to produce disease-free crops

EPA should hear from you!

The EPA is investigating alleged health hazards of DITHANE® fungicide, manufactured by Rohm and Haas Company, along with the whole spectrum of EBDC fungicides such as Zineb, Maneb, Mancozeb and others.

Scientists in America and throughout the world believe there is no health hazard created by the use of these EBDC fungicides on your crops. The EPA, however, may accept data from laboratory tests on mice and rats as indicating a hazard.

EPA will balance benefit evidence against hazard evidence. Evidence of benefit can keep these products in use. That's why EPA should hear from you within the next few weeks.

Specifically—EPA welcomes certain information about your use of fungicides and your thoughts about the consequences of these fungicides being taken off the market.

Here's a summary of what EPA wants to know:

- Major uses you make of EBDC fungicides and the estimated quantities used on each of your crops.
- Are there any available substitutes for EBDC fungicides and, if there are any, what would their use do to your costs.
- An estimate on the change in your productivity (yield per acre and/or total output) if EBDC fungicides were no longer available.
- Your guess as to the impact on production of major agricultural commodities and retail food prices of these commodities should EBDC fungicides be removed from the market.

Your letter should contain EPA's code notation: OPP30000/18

Regulators or other interested persons who desire to submit benefit information should consider submitting information on the following subjects, along with any other relevant information they desire to submit:

1. Identification of the major uses of the pesticide, including estimated quantities used by crop or other application.
2. Identification of the minor uses of the pesticide, including estimated quantities used by category such as lawn and garden uses and household uses.
3. Identification of registered alternative products for the uses set forth in (1) and (2) above, including an estimate of their availability.
4. Determination of the change in costs to the user of providing equivalent pesticide treatment with any available substitute products.
5. Assessment of regulation impact upon user productivity (e.g., yield per acre and/or total output) from using available substitute pesticides or from using no other pesticides.
6. If the impacts upon either user costs or productivity are significant, a qualitative assessment of the regulation's impact on production of major agricultural commodities and retail food prices of such commodities.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Retreat Again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated again today, faced with persistent concern over rising interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials lost a fraction in early trading.

Declines took a small lead over advances among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Federal Reserve reported a $2 billion increase in the basic measure of the money supply late Thursday.

Analysts noted that the news sparked fears of continued credit-tightening by the Fed.

Today's early prices included Continental Oil, unchanged at 29; Raytheon, up 1/4 at 30 3/8; and Vetc, up 1/8 at 19 1/2.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 1.82 to $88.14, setting a 21-month low for the second straight day. The average had fallen 10.82 points on Wednesday.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a 4-3 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume slowed to 16.66 million shares from 22.20 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index was unchanged at 52.08.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .10 at 117.24.

HUD SCANDAL
Could Start Flood Homeowners' Suit

DETROIT (AP) — The first homeowners' court suit growing out of Detroit's $100 million federal housing scandal has gone to trial, and if successful could pave the way for hundreds more.

A Detroit couple is asking $24,000 as compensation for basement flooding and frustration suffered because the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development allegedly stalled in repairing a house next door.

The suit in U.S. District Court in Detroit by Paul and Mattle Braxton asks $9,000 for damages to their home and $15,000 for the anguish they blame on HUD's "brutal disregard" for their plight. The trial started Thursday.

A government attorney said the suit, if successful, could open the way for a flood of damage actions by other Detroit families.

"There must be thousands of Detroiters whose homes were damaged or reduced in value between 1969 and 1974 as a

Court Asks Information In Gas Case

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Court of Appeals wants more information before it decides how much Consumers Power Co. should be authorized to earn from its natural gas operations.

The court Thursday told the Public Service Commission to provide its reasoning in rejecting Consumers' request to increase its rate of return on common equity.

Consumers asked in 1974 that its 12.12 per cent rate of return be increased as it requested a gas rate hike of $64 million. The rate case has not been decided, although the utility has received a total of $34 million in increases in two interim decisions.

A PSC hearing judge recommended that Consumers' rate of return be increased to 13.4 per cent. But the PSC rejected that, leaving it at 12.12 per cent.

Consumers appealed to Ingham County Circuit Court, but lost. It then appealed to the Court of Appeals.

The court said the PSC's decision stated only conclusions and presented little evidence on which they were based. Before it can decide whether the ruling was correct, the court said, it must be shown the evidence.

It sent the case back to the PSC to document why it had rejected Consumers' request and reserved a final judgment for later.

State Bar Asking End To Ad Ban

DETROIT (AP) — The state Bar of Michigan yesterday recommended the removal of advertising restrictions on lawyers.

The policy-making body of the 16,000-member bar recommended to the Michigan Supreme Court that lawyers be allowed to advertise in all print media and on the radio.

Presently, attorneys can advertise only in the classified section of telephone directories. Such a change in the bar's code of professional responsibility must be approved by the high court.

Court approval would allow lawyers to advertise their hourly fees, range of fees, and fees for special services such as divorces and wills. Attorneys also would be able to advertise if they specialize in certain areas of law.

In Lansing yesterday, the Senate Municipalities and Elections committee heard Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley strongly endorse a bill requiring extensive disclosure by lobbyists of their activities. The panel is to begin work on perfecting the bill next week, following a recent series of hearings on it.

Meanwhile, the state House took no final action on any major bill Thursday, and the Senate did not meet. Both chambers returned to work Monday night.

Accused Cheat Blames Students

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Mackinac Island businessman accused of withholding money from college students says the pay deductions are justified because the young summer workers are "sexed up, boozed up and drugged up."

Robert Hughey, owner of Little Bob's Restaurant on Mackinac Island, was identified Thursday by the state Labor Department as one of three businessmen who illegally withheld more than $25,000 from the pay of 160 college students who worked on the island this summer.

A departmental report cited the Murray Hotel, Little Bob's and the Knife and Fork Restaurant as the offenders.

Labor Director Keith Molin said his investigators examined wage records at other island businesses, including the noted Grand Hotel, but found either minor violations or none at all.

The results of the inquiry have been turned over to Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley for further action, Molin said.

Molin said the Murray Hotel owes more than $20,000 in back pay. Owner Patrick Pulte said the payments have been made, but Molin disputes him. Pulte refused to discuss details. The labor department says Pulte gave employees checks for the money he owed them and then forced them to endorse it right back to him to pay for summer's room and board.

Hughey defended his treatment of the summer workers, saying he put some of them up at his hotel since housing on the island resort was hard to come by last summer.

"The upsetting thing about all this is that Mackinac Island attracts many of the upper-middle income children for summer jobs and these kids are sexed up, boozed up and drugged up," Hughey said. "I think the parents should pay us for taking care of them."

Sam Brocato, owner of the Knife and Fork, was unavailable for comment at his Scottsdale, Ariz., home.

The state charged many of the students were forced to live in company-supplied housing if they wanted to keep their jobs and that food and room and board costs were illegally deducted from their paychecks.

Investigators cited the case of one waitress who earned $102 in a two-week period but took home only $21 after deductions that included $84.50 for two weeks room and board, standard tax deductions and a $20 fee for helping her to find and keep a job at the Murray Hotel.

Molin said all three businesses have been advised to settle up with the underpaid students as soon as possible.

Hughey told interviewers he paid the summer workers $2.20 an hour instead of the $2.30 which the state contends should have been the scale.

He put part of the blame on the labor department which he says does not keep employers informed about changes in minimum wages and other labor laws.

Three Bound Over To Circuit Court

Two Illinois men charged with a New Buffalo township burglary were bound over to Berrien Circuit court Thursday.

Bound over after examinations in Berrien District court were Daniel D. Castleberry and Gary Keagle, both 20 and both of Joliet. They are charged with breaking into the Golden Door restaurant Aug. 17. They remained free on $5,000 bonds.

Laurie Ishmael Baldwin, 20, of 811 Michigan avenue, St. Joseph, was bound over on a forgery charge. She waived examination on a charge of forging a $40 check in St. Joseph April 29. She remained jailed under a $1,000 bond.

Demanding preliminary examination was Richard F. Huston, 19, of Pleasant View East, Waterville. He is accused of breaking into a Waterville store at 126 North Main street Aug. 18. He did not post $5,000 bond.

Willie C. Edison, 18, of 608 Pine street, Benton Harbor was sentenced to one year in the county jail. He was charged with conspiracy to commit petty larceny. After pleading guilty to that charge, the original charge of unarmed robbery of a watch from Danny Winter at Benton Harbor high school Sept. 12 was dismissed.

Lillie B. Hall, 23, of 1083 Union street, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 10 days in jail, one year probation and restitution for two checks. She pleaded guilty to writing an insufficient funds' check for less than $50 at The Man Alive, Benton township.

Irene T. McLean, 37, of South Bend, was sentenced to 12 days in jail for receiving and concealing stolen property valued under $100 — a car — in Bertrand township Sept. 11.

Sentenced for the following violations were:

Impaired driving — Cecil L. Riddle, 26, of Coopers, fine and costs of $100 or 20 days in jail; Karen L. Rainey, 18, of 2006

North Redbird trail, Buchanan, $105; Larry J. Clark, 35, of 111 Seymour, Niles, $225 and one year probation for second offense.

NOW SEE HERE!

By Bert Bacharach

KITCHEN SNOOPING: Mix three parts of lemon juice with one part of vinegar for a tasty sauce for filet of sole (Joe's Pier 52, NYC)... Try adding grated Romano cheese to your usual green salad for a tangier taste (Roma di Notte, NYC)... Instead of the usual orange or cherries with roast duck, try fresh pears, grapes or plums (Quo Vadis, NYC).

FADED PHRASES: "He's a knucklehead," "He was cleaned out, lock, stock and barrel" and "She's a real Calamity Jane"...

Sandwich Favorite of Don Meredith: Put Swiss cheese slices between two pieces of ham-and-melon, butter the outside and saute in a pan...

Michael Caine gets stung with his next movie role: He'll be starring in Irwin Allen's epic about killer bees. "Swarm"...

Joe Levine is setting up his next production, "Magic," and I hear it's working like a charm!... "The Fun Food Factory" is a delightful new book by British actress Nannette Newman. It's for children of all ages!... Bob Orben writes: "Things are not going all that well with the new Administration—but I still don't think we ought to call them 'Jimmy Carter and Not Quite Ready for Prime Time Players!'"...

HELPFUL HINTS: If the rung of a chair keeps loosening, try using plastic wood instead of glue... Freshen up "smoker's mouth" when toothpaste or mouthwash is not available by chewing on an unbuttered piece of white bread... One cup of vinegar added to a gallon of warm water cleans varnished woods beautifully.
